Located in the heart of the Meatpacking District, Fort Gansevoort is a cultural hub for art, design, and food. Set in a Greek Revival row house built in 1849, Fort Gansevoort is located on Gansevoort Plaza, at 5 Ninth Avenue, between the Intersection of Gansevoort and Little West 12th Street.

Maintaining the original framework of the three story landmarked house, Fort Gansevoort's second and third floor gallery spaces, as well as outdoor courtyard, provide an exceptional location for private hire. Equipped with a fully functional kitchen, the space can accommodate many types of events, whether an intimate dinner for 30 or a cocktail party for 250. We are also home to a commercial grade smoker and can provide barbecue from our in house pit master should you choose to forego traditional catering.
