

Institute for Cross-Disciplinary
Engagement at Dartmouth

Institute for Cross-Disciplinary Engagement at Dartmouth
Launching Conference
Friday, September 30 – Saturday, October 1, 2016
Dartmouth College, Hanover, NH
Filene Auditorium, Moore Hall

The Sciences, The Humanities, The Future

Friday, September 30, 2016

2:30 p.m. Welcome and Opening Remarks

2:40 p.m. Speakers

- Rebecca Goldstein, New York University
"The Philosophers and the Scientists Should Be Friends"
- Seth Lloyd, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
"A Turing Test for Free Will"

4:00 p.m. Break

4:30 p.m. Speakers

- William Storrar, Center of Theological Inquiry, Princeton, NJ
"Instituting Interdisciplinarity: The Cultural Challenge"
- K.C. Cole, University of Southern California
"Science for the Soul: The Sentimental Fruits"

(Friday, September 30, 2016 continued)

- Mary-Jane Rubenstein, Wesleyan University
"God and the Multiverse: A Melodrama"

Saturday, October 1, 2016

9:15 a.m. Remarks by President Phil Hanlon, Dartmouth College

9:30 a.m. Speakers

- Maria Popova, Brain Pickings (brainpickings.org)
"Aesthetic Fact: Memory, Memetics, and How Beauty Mediates
the Porous Boundary Between Art and Science"
- Alan Lightman, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
"The Physicist as Novelist"

10:50 a.m. Break

11:30 a.m. Speaker

- Paul Davies, Arizona State University
"Are We Alone?"

12:10-2:00 p.m. Lunch – FREE TIME

2:00 p.m. Speaker

- Adina Roskies, Dartmouth College
"Free Will in the Age of Neuroscience"

2:40-3:40 p.m. Panel Discussion Moderated by Marcelo Gleiser, Dartmouth College

603-646-1380

ice@dartmouth.edu

ice.dartmouth.edu

