In conjunction with the Chicago Medical Society, The Chicago Urological Society Presents

MEN’S HEALTH

12/02/2015
University Club of Chicago

Keynote Address: Abraham Morgentaler, MD, FACS
Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center
Harvard Medical School

Target Audience: Urologists
EDUCATIONAL NEEDS

The area of Men’s health is an emerging area of medicine. Urologists have the unique opportunity of playing a vital role in men’s overall health. Often the first time men will present to a physician is because of urologic issues such as erectile dysfunction, BPH, infertility, low testosterone and sexual health. Evidence based medicine reveals that some of these urologic issues could be signs of other comorbidities that if diagnosed early, could lead to better overall health and prevention of potential complications from these comorbidities. It is important to identify key factors during a thorough initial Men’s Health evaluation, and essential for the urologist to properly screen patients for potential cardiac disease.

Additionally, there has been a dramatic increase in the prescriptions written for testosterone replacement. This is partly due to an increasing aging population as well as consumer awareness. It is imperative that urologists properly screen for and treat hypogonadism. It is also important to understand the controversies surrounding testosterone replacement and make sure patients are properly counseled regarding the risks and benefits.

DESIRED LEARNING OUTCOMES

At the conclusion of this meeting, the attendee should be able to:

1. Recognize how to diagnose and treat ED and Peyronie’s disease.
2. Analyze a patient for infertility.
3. Describe how to treat BPH/LUTS properly.
4. Identify key factors in testosterone replacement.
5. Define cardiac issues in urologic patient.
6. Examine factors that constitute a thorough Men’s Health evaluation
