

Where Learning is an Adventure!

2013-2014 Annual Report

The Director's Letter

Executive Director
Susan Gottfried

The 2013-2014 school year marked Evergreen's fifteenth year of providing holistic education to students in ways that engage and promote environmental responsibility and service. This year we also added a phrase to our mission statement to better reflect our intent to promote social responsibility as well as environmental stewardship. Our school improvement goal this year was called "a bold experiment" in how to deepen student understanding. With over ninety-five percent of our students scoring proficient on academic assessments, we aimed to leverage our position as an Expeditionary Learning (EL) Mentor School and concentrated our efforts on using the language of EL to articulate what students were learning as well as the process for their learning. Leading-edge structures supported the work of teachers as they refined their classroom practices and led professional development. The result is that all students became better able to communicate how they learn and what they learned and, thereby, achieved deeper understanding in literacy, math, expeditions and habits of scholarship.

2013-2014 School Improvement Goal

All students will engage in and explain the process of their learning by consistently using the language of Expeditionary Learning.

The Board Perspective

As members of Evergreen's Board of Directors, it's our job to adopt the long, broad view for the school, ensuring that the right policies, leadership, strategy and resources are in place to confront rising challenges and seize new opportunities as they emerge.

During the 2013-2014 school year, the Board began this work by asking "what do we want the next fifteen years of the Evergreen Community Charter School to look like, and how do we get there?" We invited teachers, staff, parents, students and community partners to help us answer these questions as part of our Strategic Planning Process. The result was a bold vision for Evergreen's future that includes a commitment to holistic education and a clearer understanding of what it takes to sustain it financially. This vision also includes innovative approaches to generating revenue and making the Evergreen experience accessible to a wider swath of students and their families.

The 2013-2014 school year was also the year of the gym renovation project, one of the most significant financial investments we have ever made in the school. In addition to providing our students, staff and parents with a safe and effective multi-purpose facility, the gym represents our shared commitment to an Evergreen that is "built to last."

Here's to another fifteen years of Evergreen experiences – and beyond.

Curriculum

Evergreen Community Charter School follows the North Carolina Standard Course of Study that includes the Common Core State Standards for mathematics and English language arts and the North Carolina Essential Standards for science and social studies. It promotes students achieving mastery of concepts by learning at a deeper level.

The English language arts curriculum balances concepts of literature and informational text from the earliest grades. Students think critically about and respond to what they are reading during individual, small group, and whole group discussions. Students write to authentic audiences to entertain, to persuade, and to inform.

The mathematics curriculum focuses on building solid number sense – what numbers are and how they relate to each other – to allow students to use that understanding to problem solve. A foundation of the curriculum is “Standards for Mathematical Practice” which include looking for patterns, reasoning through problems, communicating that reasoning, and critiquing other’s strategies.

The 2013-2014 school year was the second year that students took the newest versions of the End of Grade tests. In 2012-2013, after the re-normed tests' scores were released, it was clear that scores across the state had dropped. In 2013-2014, Evergreen gained evidence of the beginning of a trend in which our students' scores showed growth in reading, math, and science in grades three through eight. Overall as a school, we met the state's Annual Measurable Objective criteria in 2013-2014.

Honors and Accolades

Third grade teacher Chris Weaver was named North Carolina's 2013-2014 Charter School Teacher of the Year.

And more great news!

Fourth-grade teacher Jeanne McCabe Curtis was selected to participate in the Governor's Teacher Network operated in partnership by the Office of Governor Pat McCrory and the NC Department of Public Instruction.

The Art program shone in 2013-2014. Elementary and middle school student art shows placed second at the NC Mountain State Fair earning $300 for the art program. Seventh grader Daniel Wascoe earned an Honorable Mention student award at the prestigious Scholastic Arts Exhibition at the Asheville Art Museum, sixth grader Lilly Derry's student artwork is on display at the NC Dept of Public Instruction, first grader Penny Trudrung's art is in the General Assembly Youth Art Exhibit and sixth grader Skye Wascoe's art currently represents Evergreen at the state Office of Charter Schools year-long art exhibit.

Readers of the Mountain Xpress awarded Evergreen the Best School in WNC for 2013 with teachers Chris Weaver winning Best Teacher, Tony Mele coming in second for Best Teacher, and Sue Ford coming in second for Best Music Teacher in WNC.

Lynn Player received the "Golden Spoke" award presented by the Asheville City Council for her efforts to promote transportation alternatives and for her own dedication to bicycle commuting to work and beyond.

Evergreen named one of Expeditionary Learning's 21 Mentor Schools

Expeditionary Learning (EL) added Evergreen to its roster of exemplary schools known within their network as Mentor Schools. This honor was due to our strong, consistent, and actively contributing leadership as well as solid student performance measured by state assessments. We hosted visitors from thirteen schools from the southeast and mid-Atlantic regions. Some of our teachers contributed to early research on EL in primary grades and others presented workshops at other schools on experiential learning and Crew.

Science Olympiad

Evergreen's Science Olympiad team placed third at regionals and medaled in many events, and came in 24th place overall at the North Carolina State competition. Seventh and eighth grade math teacher Jason Carter won the inaugural middle school Science Olympiad Coach of the Year for the state of North Carolina. According to the North Carolina Science Olympiad, "coaches aren't just leaders of their team, but also leaders in their school. The best coaches conduct themselves in an honorable way in and out of the classroom. More than anything, the best coaches inspire us all to do better in our own lives." Congratulations, Jason!

Evergreen earned continued accreditation from the Southern Association of College and Schools Council on Accreditation and School Improvement at AdvancED, an organization that advances excellence in education worldwide.

Visual Arts

The visual arts program at Evergreen nurtures the growing artist in each child. Classes in drawing, painting, ceramics, sculpture, weaving and printmaking encourage self-expression, creativity and high quality work. Weekly art instruction reflects the North Carolina Visual Arts Essential Standards as well as Expeditionary Learning core practices in visual arts. Throughout the school year, visual arts are integrated with grade level classroom expeditions both in the classroom and during art class.

Our ceramics program continued to develop when a local ceramic artist endowed the art program with a kiln, slab roller and wedging table. Other highlights of the school year included a service project with the donation of 50 student handbuilt ceramic bowls to The Lord's Acre for their Empty Bowls fundraiser as well as student artwork representing Evergreen in many venues throughout the state of North Carolina.

Kindergartener Lucie Holland works on her fish collage in art class.

Seventh graders Iliana Wickliffe, Lia Trebilcock, Adventure PE teacher Jo Giordano, Naomi Lawing, Nia Garcia, and Banyan Lewis demonstrating a silly variation of squats – Squat-a-saurus Rex – created by the students.

Adventure/PE

True to Evergreen's mission to educate our students' mind, body and spirit, Evergreen's Adventure/PE teacher provided a wide range of physical activities for our students. The gym renovation prompted using different landscapes for learning areas – students used the athletic fields, EL trail, lower baseball fields, classrooms and even the parking lot. The student body worked out with specific exercises throughout the school year to earn Spirit Days including Mustache Morning, Pajama Day, Twinsie Day, and Dunk Tank Day. As always, classes found creative ways to see results in their personal fitness goals and make healthy habits for life-long health and wellness.

Evergreen Music

Due to our gym renovation, general music classes were taught in the classrooms this year. Music teacher Tonya Reese led song circles in the foyer, outside or in the lunchroom. Students in all grade levels enjoyed the Lunchroom Concert Series consisting of music by volunteer professional musicians who are either Evergreen parents or friends of the Evergreen community.

The science lab was adapted so that the marimba program, in its eleventh year, could practice in that space. The Evergreen Multicultural Beat Ensemble (EMBE) made many appearances in the community this year including a performance at the National EL Conference reception at the Georgia Aquarium, SoCon Basketball Tournament, Givens Estate, WLOS Teacher Appreciation Banquet, Montford Arts Festival and Asheville City Market.

Evergreen's Community Chorus performed in the community, singing at services at the Unitarian Universalist Church, St. Luke's Episcopal Church and at St. James Episcopal Church in Black Mountain.

Diversity

Our Diversity Committee continued to work towards the Diversity Plan goals created last year, which include enriching the racial and ethnic diversity of our student, staff and board population. We strive to have inclusive curriculum and practices and intentionally prepare our students to thrive in a diverse society. The largest achievement this year was advocating for a revision to the Evergreen Mission Statement to include “social responsibility” which was passed by the board and community. The revision is waiting approval from the State Board of Education.

Evergreen Community Charter School is a learning community committed to the pursuit of excellence in the holistic education of mind, body, and spirit. We prepare students for successful lifelong learning, social responsibility, environmental stewardship, and service. We value the voice of every member of our community.

Evergreen participated strongly for the fourth year in YWCA's Stand Against Racism event with various school-wide activities that focused on celebrating all the different forms of diversity in our community. An interactive display was created for this event. It gave people an opportunity to share pictures and statements about the wonderful ways we are all unique and similar, ranging from skin color, culture and nationality to appearance and family structure.

Third graders enjoy a Happy Body Feast and learned about nutrition and daily physical wellness practices as part of their body systems studies.

Environmental Education

Environmental Education at Evergreen in 2013-2014 emphasized reflection, education and service. Students explored the natural world in many ways, guided by Evergreen teachers and our EE Coordinator as well as community experts and partners. The Outdoor Classroom was put to good use and we found ways to use our campus as a living laboratory. Our students found deeper learning through meaningful experiences in the garden, forests and wetlands surrounding the campus.

Seventh graders found sit spots in the forest surrounding Evergreen and spent time there reflecting on their relationship with nature. Various types of writing were explored through this nature writing series and students posted their work on the Evergreen Nature Writers blog (www.evergreencsee.com). The year culminated with a Wild South Earth Day writing contest, that asked students to write a passionate call to action – educating and inspiring others to be better stewards of the environment.

Across the grades, students shared their learning about the environment with one another and the greater Asheville community. Our sixth grade Green Team started the year by learning about our recycling and composting programs and then teaching the lower grades what they learned through a series of educational skits. The eighth grade built an Earth Quilt in our garden and through the use of patterns and colors told stories about how the environment has shaped Appalachian culture over time. And our first grade partnered with Greenworks to become experts in backyard composting by building, then demonstrating how a backyard compost pile works. At Evergreen, education is not just about the teachers teaching the students. Rather, it is a community-wide effort where we all listen and share and learn together.

Differentiated Services:

Program for Advanced Learners

During the 2013-2014 school year, the Program for Advanced Learners (PAL) served the needs of nearly 90 third- through eighth-grade students in need of more academic challenge. Students were involved in pull-out reading groups focusing on critical and creative thinking and community discussions. Fifth and sixth grade advanced math students participated in accelerated math groups where they did a combination of project-based learning, deep thinking and focusing on problem solving strategies. Seventh and eighth grade math students were in an advanced section of Math 1 and Geometry.

PAL-sponsored events included Odyssey of the Mind which sent two creative teams all the way to the state competition and the Evergreen/ArtSpace Spelling Contest. Middle school spellers then went on to compete in the Asheville Area Middle School Spelling Contest.

Exceptional Children's Program

The Exceptional Children's (EC) Program served up to 74 students. Differentiated instruction, accommodations, modifications, and specially designed instruction are provided according to individual needs either in general education classrooms with co-teaching support or in EC resource classrooms. Evergreen staff encouraged and taught students to discover how they learn resulting in students being self-advocates in the classroom and in Individual Education Plan (IEP) development.

Through collaboration of EC and general education staff, students engaged in learning about multiple intelligences, participated in grade level curriculum and expeditions, and strengthened their basic academic and functional skills. During the school year, parents participated in EC parent support meetings, Stakeholder meetings/planning, and most importantly, IEP meetings for their children. Students with 504 Personal Student Plans are provided accommodations in general education classes.

Crew

The Evergreen Crew program is based on three intentions: character development, facilitating a supportive peer connection, and strengthening a personal connection to a staff adult. Beginning in second grade, Crews consist of groups of 10-12 students and a staff Crew Leader, and meet weekly throughout the year. Grades sometimes have all-day Crew experiences that allow for extended time to build connections with one another and the community. Crew Leaders use their own unique personalities, interests and innovation to engage their crew-mates through interactive outdoors, physical and expressive arts activities, service and much more.

This year, an increase in service and project-based learning took place through Crew, particularly through campus improvement projects, older students tutoring and partnering with younger students, and involvement in school events and fundraising efforts. For example, the Third Grade Black Locust Crew built a wood shed for the campus, Fifth Grade Crews sold hot chocolate to benefit the Evergreen Angels program that bought holiday gifts for our families in need, and the Seventh and Eighth Grade Environmental Leadership Crew studied local businesses with sustainability practices, attended a youth environmental leadership conference in Atlanta and produced a local radio show about their project.

Income and Expense

The majority of Evergreen's revenue (60%) in 2013-2014 was from the state allotment, which is based on the number of children enrolled. Local funds accounted for 30% and federal revenue accounted for 4%.

As in virtually every school and non-profit organization, salaries and benefits account for the largest expense. We do not receive state funding for facilities and grounds. Mortgage payments, facilities maintenance and repair account for 10% of expenses.

Fund-raising and Friend-raising

At Evergreen, the entire school gets involved with fundraising. Classrooms do small fundraisers to pay for field work and end-of-year trips. The pizza lunch program supports the eighth grade Outward Bound (OB) trip and Crowdfunding with Indiegogo raised more than $3,500 to fund OB scholarships. Art materials were purchased through the Evergreen community's support of the Art By Me fundraiser that celebrates the art work of our students, and many teachers relied on Donor's Choose to purchase classroom supplies.

We applied for and received $50,500 from foundations this year with the revenue going to the gym and also Evergreen's new Summer Adventures Camp's Field to Feast program. EMBE, Level I Marimba and Community Chorus performed at the December Barnes and Noble Book Fair helping to raise money for the Evergreen library, and Evergreen Extracurricular Music (EEMu) held a concert at the Isis Music Hall that raised more than $1,200.

The concert included performances from both marimba bands, the StringGreens, the seventh and eighth grade music crew, the Community Chorus and "Band Aid", a kindergarten-third grade ensemble, and a fantastic rock and roll band consisting of Evergreen parents. In 2013-2014, the EEMu raised over $4,000.

After ten years, we retired CAFÉ (Caring Artists for Evergreen), a concert for parents and other adults, and tried a new event that was student-driven – the Boosterthon Fun Run. It was a huge success that exceeded all our expectations. Not only did we raise more than twice what we targeted, the entire school participated and had a blast. Also, Boosterthon donated 400 meals to Feeding America because we hit our required pledge level. A big thank you goes to the new Fundraising Leadership Team (FLT) for coordinating the Fun Run. In 2013-2014, the FLT oversaw all the school-wide fundraisers while the Development Committee focused on creating strategies for sustainability such as corporate sponsorships, major donor campaigns, foundation and grant appeals and the Evergreen Fund. Evergreen Fund Chair Chris Weaver encouraged parents to donate monthly to help fill our gap left by the state budget cuts to cover the "priceless" education received at Evergreen.

Charter schools have been especially affected by the severe education budget cuts that have taken place over the past few years. We receive no funding for capital expenses such as our facility and grounds which accounts for a large part of our annual budget. Our gym renovation was financed through a capital fundraising project, the More than Just a Gym Campaign (see page 12), the school's reserve fund and private financing. We rely on gifts from our families, grandparents, foundations and local businesses to balance our budget each year. Our community of donors was especially generous in 2013-2014.

More than Just a Gym campaign

Thanks to the generosity of hundreds of individuals, foundations and local businesses, Evergreen began the 2014-2015 school year with a high performance multi-purpose gathering space. We had to really improvise in the year without our gymnasium. As the campaign name implies, our gym is home to many of our community events and traditions. We had to find alternate locations for P.E., Before School and EverAfter clubs, New Parent Breakfast, Fall Family Nights, the Winter Program, Exhibition Night, Community Circles, Grandparents Day and Summer Camp. But the inconvenience was well worth the end result. Thank you to our donors listed below:
