

“Despite this couple being incredibly camera shy, I managed to get this beautifully joyous photograph of them immediately after the ceremony as their friends and family showered them in confetti. The laughter and happiness in this photograph is almost tangible and I later found out it was one of their favourites from the day too.”

“This was a very nervous bride. She felt quite shaken up before the ceremony but had the unconditional love and support of her bridesmaids throughout. After the ceremony she was beaming and her bridesmaids remained at her side – the ultimate bride tribe.”
