2016 Chardonnay Central Coast

100% Chardonnay, 96% Los Alamos Santa Barbara County, 4% Paso Robles Clone 4 and Dijon Clones, vines between 13 and 33 years old, 630-1,000 ft elevation Vertical Shoot Positioned Canopy, Planted on rolling hills of sandy loam and loam soils Stainless steel 62°, 3 week fermentation, lees stirred, no malo-lactic fermentation

13.8% Alcohol, 0.64 TA, 3.59 pH, .03 RS

“The 2016 Chardonnay is fabulous. In this vintage, the Chardonnay is especially broad, with plenty of tropically leaning fruit, peach and apricot flavors. Lees stirring adds textural richness, but the malolactic fermentation is blocked. The 2016 was not bottled at the time of my tastings, as the Varners wanted to give the wine more time on its lees. Quite simply, this is one of the best values in California

Chardonnay readers will come across.”

“The 2015 Zinfandel is bright, refreshing and full of energy. Sweet red cherry fruit, floral notes and tobacco are all given an extra kick of aromatic and acid-driven brightness Medium in body and lithe, the 2015 delivers serious quality for the money Don't miss it”

The 2016 vintage has not yet been reviewed, here's the 2015 review.

“The 2015 Cabernet Sauvignon is another superb value from Foxglove. Dark red cherry, sweet tobacco, licorice and mint are pushed forward in this mid-weight, refreshing Paso Robles Cabernet. Aging in steel keeps the flavors vibrant and also helps keep the price ridiculously low by California standards”

89 Points Antonio Galloni, September 2017
