WE'RE GLAD YOU'RE HERE:
HOSPITALITY AS LENS
Pastor Julie
Dear Friends,

Last Sunday FBC had its Annual Meeting after Worship during our monthly potluck luncheon in the Fellowship Hall. This Annual Meeting marked the end of my fourth year as Moderator of FBC, and also marked the end of my term in that role. During the meeting we heard wonderful reports from each of our three excellent pastors, including a proposal from Pastor Julie for a new hospitality initiative next year at our church, focusing particularly on how we can reach out to newcomers and people on the margins of faith. The congregation affirmed Pastor Julie’s proposal with a hearty “Amen!” and I am excited to see it implemented during our new program year.

The Annual Meeting also included a “God Story” by Didier Ahimera, a Membership Report by Kate Campbell, a Treasurer’s Report by Mike Henson, a Diaconate Report by Rod Coates, an announcement by Wil McBeath that the FBC Foundation will hold its Annual Meeting on June 4, 2017, and a vote by the congregation to authorize our three pastors and any others who may wish to attend the Baptist denominational meetings held this summer to serve as messengers representing FBC. Thanks to Pastor Alyssa and Chelsea Clarke, all of the business I just described above was punctuated with drawings to win fabulous door prizes and, to keep everyone on their toes, “dance breaks” where the best dancer received their own FBC Worship Bag as a prize. Be sure to check out the pictures (https://goo.gl/f2YO8A) of folks of all ages getting their groove on by twisting, shouting, and walking “like an Egyptian!” We all had lots of fun!

Finally, at the Annual Meeting, the congregation voted unanimously in favor of approving the Nominating Committee’s new leadership slate for the 2017-18 FBC program year. Many thanks to the Nominating Committee (Kate Campbell, Chair, Sadye Doxie, and Doug Duvall) for all of their hard work assembling their nominations, and to all the different members of our congregation who were nominated and agreed to serve.

in leadership positions next year.

During the Annual Meeting, Rod Coates was elected as our new Moderator. Rod most recently served as the Chair of the Diaconate at FBC, and he brings a wealth of experience to his new role. I am confident that Rod will do a fantastic job, and I ask that you join me in congratulating him on his election and praying for him (and for our Church) as we transition to Rod’s capable leadership.

I want to thank everyone once again for giving me the opportunity to serve as your Moderator over the last four years. During the Annual Meeting I told all of you that out of everything that I have done at FBC during my ten years here, serving as Moderator has been the most fun so far. This is because, as Moderator, I have gotten to know and work closely with so many of you—all of whom make up our wonderful Church family here at FBC. It is great to see the Holy Spirit working in our Church. I remain very excited for our future, and can’t wait to see where God is leading us as a congregation.

In Christ,

Lucy Plovnick
FBC Moderator
May 5, 2013—May 7, 2017

On May 21 all adults and youth are invited to participate in the second of two Bible studies facilitated by Pastor Julie and some of the deacons who make up the Inclusion Team at FBC. After engaging in several “listening sessions” earlier this year about how we envision our congregation with regard to LGBT inclusiveness, we are now in the process of engaging biblical texts that inform this conversation.

Please note the earlier starting time: Continental Breakfast starting at 9:00. Bible study from 9:15 - 10:40am. Please keep praying as we lean into God and one another through this conversation.
WE'RE GLAD YOU'RE HERE: HOSPITALITY AS LENS

From Pastor Julie:

I’m still smiling as I think about Sunday’s Annual Meeting. From Lucy Plovinick’s superb leadership (as always), to Didier Ahimera’s God story, to the fun door prizes and the sight of a bunch of Baptists dancing (as well as some dignified swaying) in Fellowship Hall—this year’s laughter-filled Annual Meeting was full of gratitude for our present and anticipation for our future, under God.

During the gathering I made a proposal for the coming year which the congregation affirmed with a supportive “Amen”. Here is the crux of my message:

I propose that in the year ahead we view hospitality to newcomers as a chief priority, especially people for whom God and faith and church are a bit of a stretch. And since, for us, the most energetic, participatory moment of our week is Sunday morning, I recommend that we marshal more of our energies and people power and resources toward “lifting” the entire Sunday morning experience at FBC from beginning to end—and that our focus, as we do, be people on the margins of faith.

WHAT WILL THAT MEAN FOR US?

- Making an intentional effort to chip away at whatever barriers (programmatic, aesthetic, liturgical, logistical, etc.) may be hindering newcomers from connecting with God and Christian community here.
- Evaluating everything we do, especially Sunday mornings, through the eyes of a 21st century spiritual seeker.
- Asking every committee, team or group—including our deacons, Church Council and staff—to ask, every time we meet: “How are we doing at making our particular piece of FBC’s mission more accessible to newcomers and people on the margins of faith?”
- Rather than another program, hospitality will serve as a lens through which we see ourselves; a lens through which we evaluate our programs, ministries, worship, mission and vision.

On Sunday I pointed to John 12:20ff., which tells about a pivotal day when some “outsiders” showed up, asking if they could see Jesus. It was precisely when a door opened to engage those outside the circle that Jesus said the hour had come for the Son of God to be seen in the world for who he is. I’m excited as I think of our opening more and more doors together at First Baptist, and becoming a spiritual home for many more who are seeking God.

Peace and grace,

Julie

Beauty and the Beast 2017
Thanks to FBC
THANK YOU! Thirteen members and friends of First Baptist attended the benefit at Toby’s Dinner Theatre on May 7 for the Greentree Adolescent Program (GAP) of the National Center for Children and Families. It was wonderful being together for an evening of good food, outstanding entertainment and fellowship, while supporting a worthy cause. The 20 young men from GAP, and their chaperones, who were our guests, thoroughly enjoyed the production of Beauty and the Beast. Members of First Baptist also donated $234 for which we are extremely grateful. The donations received, as well as profit from ticket sales, enabled us to give $4,000 to the NCCF for the GAP summer program. Our thanks to all who continually support the NCCF.
