MARCH FOR OUR LIVES
Sat. Mar. 24
KELLY MAGEE-PRICHARD: FBC’S NEW MINISTER FOR CHILDREN & FAMILIES

With excitement and gratitude, the Personnel Committee and Faith Formation Team invite the FBC family to join them in welcoming Kelly Magee-Prichard as our new Minister for Children and Families.

Kelly and her family (husband, Chuck, and son, Angus) began worshiping with us in the fall of 2017 and immediately sensed the spirit of God at work (Kelly was initially drawn to FBCDC because of our Statement of Inclusion, adopted last September.) They joined First Baptist on January 28, 2018.

Kelly holds a Doctor of Management degree in Organizational Leadership (University of Phoenix, 2009); a M. A. in Mass Communication (Northeast Louisiana University, 1996); and a B. A. in Journalism (Louisiana Tech, 1990). Kelly’s greatest passion is nurturing children, encouraging their families, and directing, coordinating and training volunteers who serve infants, preschoolers and children. The daughter of a Baptist pastor, she began leading children as a teenage counselor at Acadian Baptist Center in Louisiana. Most recently Kelly taught children at International Baptist Church in Stuttgart-Vaihingen (Germany).

The Process:

• August 2017: FBC began soliciting resumés for this part-time position

• December 2017: Kelly Magee-Prichard was identified by the personnel committee as the top candidate

• January 2018: Kelly met with Pastors Julie & Charlie; with members of personnel committee; and with parents and teachers of FBC children

• February 1-15, 2018: Kelly completed Federal & District background checks

• February 18, 2018: Kelly met with Moderator Rod Coates and Pastor Julie to sign covenant letter

• March 1, 2018: Official start date
Responsibilities:
As Minister for Children and Families Kelly will work under direct supervision of the Pastor. Her responsibilities will include three focal areas:

1. Spiritual Leadership
   - Serve as a growing Christian leader among parents and children (grade six and under)
   - Provide spiritual and pastoral guidance/care
   - Plan overall curriculum, activities and events to nurture growth in preschoolers and children, and to prepare older children for transition into the youth ministry

2. Collaboration
   - Work in collaboration with lay teams and staff to ensure a holistic ministry to children and families
   - Work with the CDC Director and CDC team to help our church to serve our CDC families
   - Provide leadership and support to our children’s teachers and others who serve our children; encourage a “team” effort

3. Cultivation of a welcoming, safe and healthy environment for children and families
   - As needed, enlist and train children’s ministry leaders/teachers for Sunday School and extended care for preschoolers during worship
   - Promote and maintain high safety standards for our children’s ministry
   - Extend hospitality to guests with children
   - Provide regular communication to parents and friends of FBC Children’s ministry through church-wide publications and children’s ministry channels
   - Perform other children’s ministry duties as assigned by the Pastor

We will welcome Kelly to the FBC staff at the upcoming church-wide potluck on March 4 (also Winter Forum Sunday). In the meantime, please pray for Kelly, her family, and all the children and families at First Baptist Church.

In Christ,

The Personnel Committee and Faith Formation Team:

CHRISTIANITY AND ISLAM: BUILDING BRIDGES

New Sunday Morning Class Begins April 8
Taught by Dr. Charlie Reynolds, US Army Chaplain (Ret.)

Every day in the news we view events involving Muslims, yet there is a vacuum of misunderstanding about Muslims and the Islamic Faith. Muslims comprise one of the largest groups of emigrants coming to the United States. Muslims are our neighbors. It is critically important for Christians in the United States to understand Islam and the beliefs of Muslims, as well as how we can interact with our Muslim brothers and sisters in meaningful ways.

Teacher: As a US Army Chaplain, Charlie Reynolds served as the Strategic Religious Advisor for United States Forces Iraq and United States Army Africa. He retired as the director of the Army Center for World Religions and is currently a religious advisor for the Army. Charlie received his BA in Interdisciplinary Studies at the University of Richmond and an MDiv and DMin from Golden Gate Seminary in Mill Valley, CA. While in the military he received a Master of Theology Degree from Princeton Seminary in World Religions and Culture and was an Academic Fellow at the Institute for Conflict Analysis and Resolution at George Mason University, where his academic focus was on ways religion can assist in reducing conflict. He has presented this material at the American Academy of Religion Annual Meeting and the Cooperative Baptist Fellowship General Assembly, as well as at conferences in the U. K. and Germany. Charlie’s hobbies are golf, running and hiking.

Classes begin at 9:30am each Sunday:
April 8       Bridge One: Understanding Islam
April 15      Bridge Two: Understanding a Muslim’s World View
April 22      Bridge Three: Understanding the Diversity in Islam
April 29      Bridge Four: The Bridge We Walk Over

WHY MARCH?

“Why are we promoting the March for our Lives and the Rally to End Racism?” While no one at FBC has asked me this question, it is certainly fair. There are marches in Washington all the time. Why these two?

“March for Our Lives”

This march wears a personal face for us at First Baptist. Our brother and newest church member, Andrew Blasi, graduated from Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School 12 years ago (see his letter on p. 10) and grew up in Parkland, FL. The mass shooting on February 14th has left Andrew and an entire community devastated. I’ll be marching as a way of demonstrating love and support. In a much broader sense, while March for Our Lives is not organized as a religious action, advocating for peace and an end to gun violence is a faithful expression of Christian discipleship as well as our own Anabaptist heritage. The way of Jesus, our Prince of Peace, embodies both an unmistakable rejection of violence and the power of love and truth in action for justice, peace and wholeness for all people. (Bill Leonard, this year’s Winter Forum speaker at FBC, wrote a blog this week for Baptist News Global about gun violence in America. Read it here. - https://baptistnews.com/article/anticipatory-mourning-americas-youth-death-guns-dissent/#.WphOtmaZNPt)

“Rally to End Racism”

This event, initiated by the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the USA, and marking the 50th anniversary of the assassination of our Baptist brother, Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., is overtly grounded in faith, and is the beginning of a focused, intentional effort to eradicate the racism that paralyzes our ability to see every human being as equal and created in God’s image.

The gospel is political but not partisan.

The gospel of Christ, grounded in the witness of the Hebrew prophets, addresses not only individual hearts but also the societal systems of every nation. In this season of Lent it is well for us to remember that it was the threat Jesus posed to both religious and political authorities that led to his crucifixion. The gospel is political…but never partisan. It is a misguided, even arrogant, assumption that the way of Christ is perfectly articulated by any political party. Our congregation includes people with varied political affiliations so our ideas on how best to encourage peace and justice may differ. And yet, beyond all political differences, the gospel of Christ calls us all to advocate for these.

Grace and peace,

Julee
Dear Friends,

As someone that is deeply cherished in my life, I’m asking for your help – that you long continue to keep in your thoughts my high school - Marjory Stoneman Douglas – and my hometown of Parkland, Florida. My “home” since infancy, with nearly 32,000 incredible people who live quietly alongside the beautiful Everglades, and its neighboring city of Coral Springs are grappling with a tragic mass shooting. Douglas is just a five minute walk from my childhood house. My family, friends, and this community are devastated. I am devastated.

This was the place that motivated me to pursue a meaningful future in Washington. And it is where I was equipped with many of the passions/personality that I bring into my friendship with you. Douglas stands out as a shining example of public education excellence. It is one of the best high schools in the state, indeed in the entire country. This is because its educators are extraordinary. Many of them have been invaluable mentors to me and have inspired my closest friends to pursue the best higher education and meaningful careers. This is where social studies teachers in December 2005 held a surprise gathering to congratulate my early acceptance to the College of William and Mary. They got me there. I say these things so you know more than the scenes that have filtered across national news. So you know how this place has a connection to you in a very real way. So we don’t dismiss it as just another incident. There are now beautiful kids from my community who won’t have the same opportunities that I did. There are beautiful families in Parkland who will never be the same. And there are future friendships all across the country that will never be had, as you do, with a Parklander. My home, the mecca of youthful memories, will never be the same. And I can promise you that those thousands of children who have been hurt - physically and mentally - are exactly like you were in high school. I know this because I was one of them, and I know you.

Please give your partners, parents, siblings, friends, colleagues a big hug when you see them. Don’t hold back. And, if you’re not the touchy type, tell them unequivocally how much you appreciate them and how special they are. Look into their eyes and smile when you do. This is the best, immediate tool each of us has. Love is the only creative, redemptive, and transforming power in the universe. And - if your conscience finds it appropriate – tell them that what has happened in Parkland is not okay. Don’t write this off. If for no other reason than you are now directly connected to it through me (and not the television). It wasn’t okay yesterday, it’s not okay today, and for you it won’t be okay tomorrow. The beautiful thing is that you and those you touch, in turn, have tomorrow a chance to use voice, creativity, and actions to right this wrong. This is true both in our daily living as well as through our civic engagement. There is no single solution. And there are many paths with dead ends. But, that doesn’t matter. It will take collective action to address this grand challenge.

I’m hoping, as my friend, you’ll serve this collective action in any way you can, starting with your own communities. And that you’ll put love at the core, providing space for dialogue and exchanging solutions with those you may disagree with. Because I believe this is the most essential tool that will make Parkland one of the last communities to ever go through this.

In honor of the place that has given me everything, I’ve decided to ban complacency from my heart. While Parkland has never weathered a storm like this, it has seen enough severe hurricanes in its time to know something about recovery and what resiliency looks like when neighbors help one another. My prayer is that this institution of excellence will rise as a living monument to the very best in all of us. Where love conquers fear. Let us now make it so. As it states in bold letters above the main exit at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School: Be the Change You Wish to See in the World.

Member, First Baptist Church of Washington, D.C. Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School, Class of 2006

HURRICANE RELIEF EFFORTS UPDATE

On February 27, work began at Anamer Castrello’s family’s house in Guaynabo, Puerto Rico. Anamer, a member of our choir, flew to PR to help oversee the installation of the new solar water heater (the family has been without hot water since the middle of September 2017). Your gifts also purchased a new gas-powered generator which was delivered on Wednesday to Carolyn Roebuck’s family in St. Croix. Carolyn is the Director of FBC’s Child Development Center. And batteries that you donated will be sent soon to these families for use in flashlights and lanterns when they’re not allowed to use generators. The FBC family has given $3,275 and 238 batteries. Your generosity is making a real difference—thanks be to God!

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH TURNING 216

Thomas Jefferson was President and Washington, D.C. was a town of only a few thousand people when on March 7, 1802, a congregation of 6 laypeople and 4 ministers organized our church in a private home. Four locations and five buildings later, First Baptist Church continues to experience the adventure of walking in the way of Christ in our nation’s Capital. We’ll celebrate with anniversary cake at the potluck lunch after worship this Sunday.
TEAM ASSEMBLED TO ADDRESS FACILITIES NEEDS

The old adage goes, “You never have a second chance to make a first impression.” This is true in all kinds of settings, including a church’s physical setting. It’s good, from time to time, to ask: are our facilities helping or hindering our mission? Facilities communicate something. A neglected, deteriorated, dated environment communicates that we aren’t competent or that we don’t really care what newcomers think. Environments matter.

The Gift
Our location at 16th and O Streets is an extraordinary corner from which to share the gospel. The facilities in which we worship, study, gather for community and welcome newcomers and neighbors are a tremendous gift, built with the sacrificial contributions of those who came before us (as well as a few who are still with us). And...the gift is in need of attention.

The Task
For several years, conversations have been taking place at FBC about the state of our facilities and what we can do to create fresh and compelling environments inside these walls. To that end, church moderator Rod Coates, in consultation with our executive pastor Charlie Fuller, has enlisted a team of men and women from our congregation to lead this initiative. The ad hoc team will guide the church in planning, funding and managing projects from beginning to end. Each team member was enlisted because of his or her expertise in a particular area: building design, renovation, engineering, finances and/or church systems, past and future. Rod has asked executive pastor Charlie Fuller to lead the team.

The Team
Facilities Improvement Team: Didier Ahimera, Kate Campbell (deacon chair), Rod Coates (moderator), Charlie Fuller (team leader), Sarah Hodges-Austin, Dennis Lambert, Wil McBeath, Bill Newell, Jac Whatley and Kathy Whatley. Steve Hunter, FBC building engineer, will serve as a staff resource.

Please pray for this group as the begin this initiative. And pray especially for the women, men, children and teenagers we haven’t even met yet, whose lives will be touched and transformed by God as they encounter the gospel on this extraordinary corner at 16th and O.
