Illuman Men’s Council

Supporting Men on the Journey of Illumination

Illuman understands the Way of Council as a communal contemplative practice. It affirms the importance of listening and speaking from the heart within a circle of men. But it also recognizes the circle as being more than the sum of its parts. Illuman wants to be open to the mystery of the Spirit that arises within the wisdom and discernment of the Council. It recognizes that we run out of words in the presence of something larger than ourselves. This necessarily widens the circumference of the circle, extending our vision to a wider community to which we also have to listen.

The Way of Council is Illuman’s primary practice, implemented at all levels of our work, from rites of passage to chapter meetings, from our homes to our wider communities. We respect this enough to equip men to do it well, but we acknowledge that council emerges apart from our efforts to control it. Circles have an archetypal life of their own. Council is the best teacher of council.

When we come together, Illuman men are conscious of the five touchstones of our journey with each other. We incorporate these touchstones into our Council practice:

- CENTERING
  We are men who are grounded in the power of the here and now.

- GATHERING
  We are men who listen deeply to each other’s stories.

- CONNECTING
  We are men who choose others with whom to walk, shoulder-to-shoulder.

- RELEASING
  We are men who let go of the ways that no longer serve us.

- SERVING
  We are men who honor the earth and serve the whole human community.

The Four Intentions

- Listen from the heart.
- Speak from the heart.
- Be spontaneous and authentic.
- Be lean of expression.
