

How to Visit Atlanta Like a Movie Star

by Allison Entrekin February 22, 2016

Eleven ways to follow in the footsteps of Jennifer Lawrence, Robert De Niro, Lady Gaga, and more.

Georgia is no stranger to the stars: It has the fastest-growing film industry in the world, with nearly 250 productions filmed in the Peach State in 2015. Much of the action is centered in Atlanta, earning it the moniker “Hollywood of the South.” Here are a few ways to experience the city like the many A-Listers who come here.

Where to Eat

Robert Downey Jr. is known to drop in for the signature Sunday brunch at Serpas True Food, a contemporary American restaurant in Atlanta’s Old Fourth Ward neighborhood. Small wonder: The menu of cast-iron sunny-side-up eggs and banana brown-sugar French toast is tough to resist. The restaurant is also a favorite of Scarlett Johansson.
