

MAY 22, 2017

ART HEARTS

4:40 PM

BY CASSIDY
DAWN GRAVES

Rikers As Seen By A Former C.O., Superstar Creators, and More Art Openings

(image via Samuel Jablon / Facebook)

outdemonstout

Opening Thursday, May 25 at Ideal Glass Gallery, 7 pm to 9 pm.

Sometimes you just get tired of going into white box galleries for art openings. If you're looking for more of a taste of fresh air, consider sauntering over to Ideal Glass, where a new mural by Samuel Jablon is being unveiled. As Jablon is also a poet, the opening will feature readings by poets Jeremy Sigler, Todd Colby, and Marine Cornuet.

The title is more topical than it appears, as it comes from lyrics to a song by "beatnik" East Village band The Fugs, from a new track fittingly called "Exorcism of the White House." This isn't the first time the band has harnessed otherworldly powers and directed them at a government building (that was 1967, at The Pentagon), but sometimes a little extra banishing effort is needed when someone extra unpleasant comes along.