

Anticipatory Reading Guide

Name:	Date:
Title of Story: Lest We Forget, Level 4, June 2014	Author: Jane Tolerton

Complete the following “Anticipatory Guide” before reading the story. Put a tick for each statement in the “True” or “False” boxes. After reading the story, go back and check your True or False answers. If you have changed your mind, write the page number, and the evidence you found.

Statement	True	False	Page number that has evidence	Evidence
Oral history is the oldest way we have of remembering our past.
Most men who came home from war wanted to talk about their experiences.
Many of the men who enlisted for the First World War thought it would be a great adventure.
Soldiers were allowed to help their friends if they were injured or wounded.
The soldiers had very good living conditions, and were fed well.
The mounted troops had beautiful horses.
Only four horses out of the original ten thousand came back to New Zealand after the war.
When the soldiers returned from the war, they found it difficult to fit back into society.				