The minor and certificate have been called the most useful complement to any PSU major. They are a valuable asset for graduate school as well as professional programs in health, education, business, counseling, legal, and public service.

Many national and international organizations search for employees with knowledge of our multicultural society and in particular the Chicano/Latino community. With a minor or certificate in Chicano/Latino Studies, you will be well prepared to hold a position of leadership in any multicultural community.

The minor or certificate can be earned while satisfying University Studies requirements or major/minor requirements.

Select a total of 12 credits from the upper division list. One of them must be a 400 level course.
