Building an Equitable Economy

Research and experience shows us the single most important factor that determines the long-term success of networks and collaborative efforts of all kinds is not strategy, structure, systems, or technology, but rather the quality and strength of the relationships that develop between its members.

– David Sawyer & Nick Viele, Converge for Impact

Economic Opportunity Program (EOP)

- Serves very low income residents of City of Portland and Multnomah County (up to 50% AMI)
- Provides career-track training and employment services as a means to economic opportunity and housing stability
- Connects the work of community-based providers with services and resources of the public workforce system (WorkSource Portland Metro Centers)

Rent Assistance HUB

CC = Career Coach
 RAC = Rent Assistance Coordinator

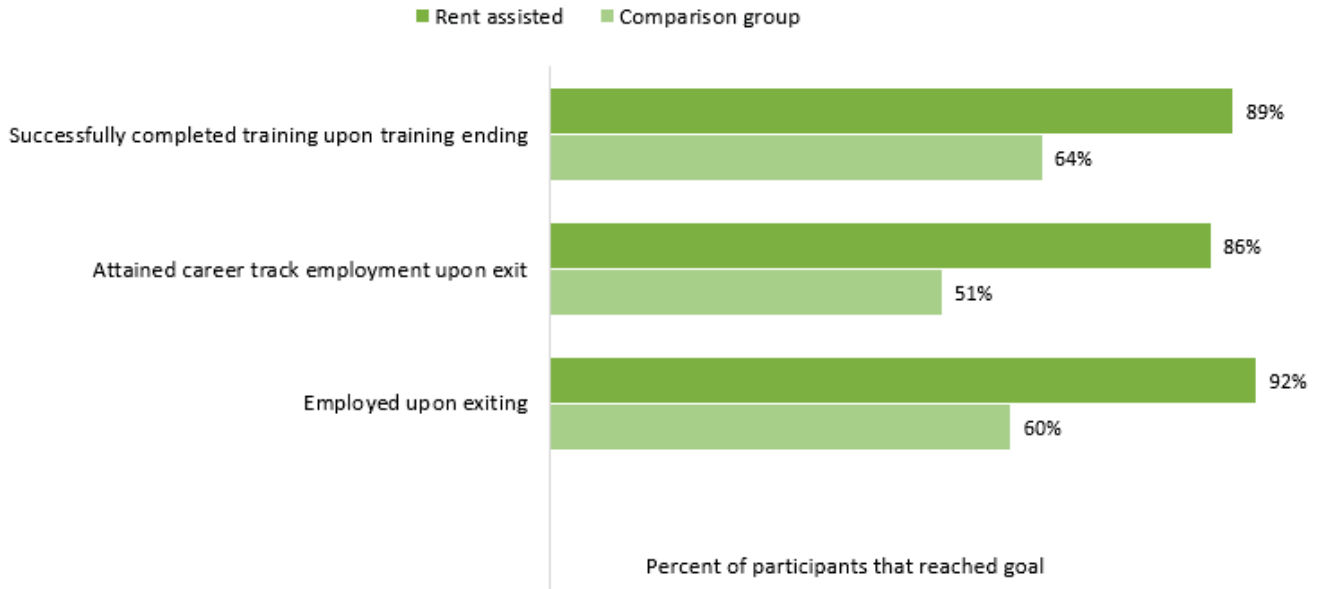

Proportional share of population by Race/Ethnicity Multnomah County 2015

More EOP rent assistance recipients are people of color than in the homeless population. 60% are persons of color.

Employment & Training Outcomes

Participants who received rent assistance were:

- 38% more likely to complete training
- 67% more likely to attain career track employment at exit
- 53% more likely to be employed at exit

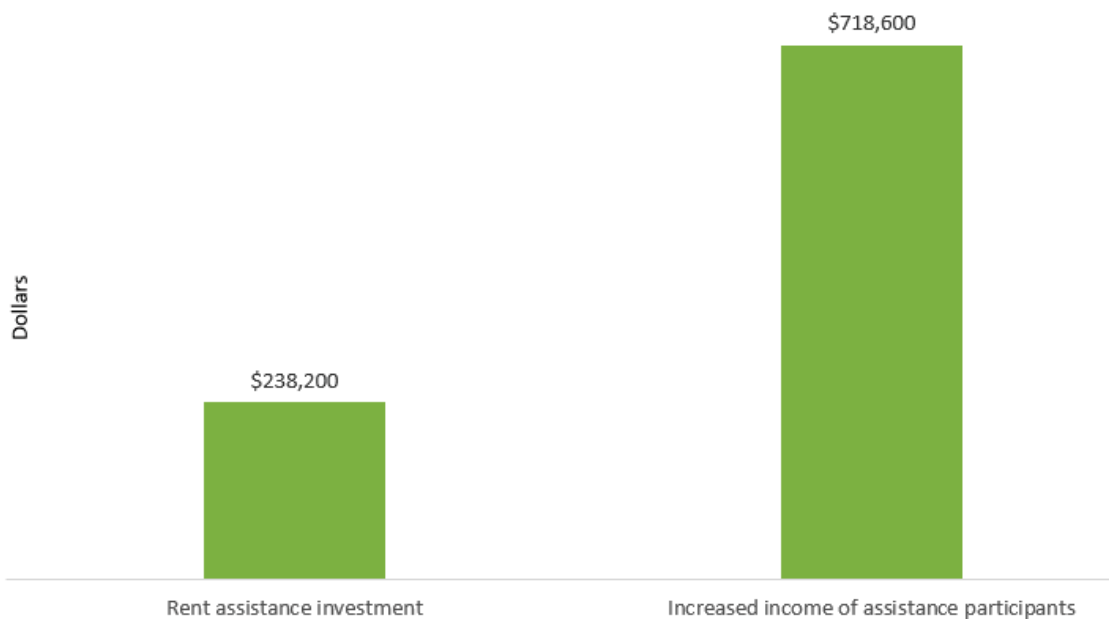

Earned Income

EOP rent assistance recipients increased their income by double the rate of the comparison group.

Return on Investment

Rent assistance recipients' increased incomes more than tripled rent assistance investments.

Systems Alignment

Rent Assistance for EOP participants:

- Increased participant success
- Created greater returns on investment for public funds through increases in income

Employment Services for homeless and housing insecure:

- Prevented and ended homelessness: 76% remained housed 12 months after their rent assistance ended
- Participant economic stability allows them to be self-sufficient and create room for others in need to access housing services.
