BE GOOD TO THE ENVIRONMENT AND YOUR BOTTOM LINE AT THE SAME TIME

The focus on building environmentally-sensitive homes in California has never been greater.

Balancing the added costs of energy-efficient appliances and construction techniques with their eco-advantages can be challenging for builders.

An effective way to address that challenge is the dual-energy approach to new home design that uses natural gas and electricity together to meet green building standards.

As rooftop solar photovoltaic systems become more prevalent, renewable natural gas will also play an increasingly important role in helping to achieve greenhouse gas emissions reductions targets.

Plus, a recent survey from the California Building Industry Association (CBIA) shows that just ten percent of Californians prefer only-electric appliances when buying a home.¹

To help builders construct new homes with the natural gas appliances customers prefer and still achieve sustainability goals like Zero Net Energy, SoCalGas® offers the Energy Efficient New Homes (EENH) Program and the California Advanced Homes Program (CAHP).

Rebates are available now to builders of new single-family and multi-family homes who equip their projects with qualifying natural gas appliances and controller devices.

For information on program requirements and how to apply, visit: socalgas.com/zne

Save some green when you go green with natural gas!

SoCalGas® – Your Partner in the Clean Energy Future

The Energy Efficient New Homes Program and the California Advanced Homes Program are funded by California utility customers and administered by Southern California Gas Company, under the auspices of the California Public Utilities Commission. Program funds, including any funds utilized for rebates or incentives, will be allocated on a first-come, first-served basis until such funds are no longer available. These programs may be modified or terminated without prior notice. The selection, purchase, and ownership of goods and/or services are the sole responsibility of customer. SoCalGas makes no warranty, whether express or implied, including the warranty of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose, of goods or services selected by customer. SoCalGas does not endorse, qualify, or guarantee the work of any third party. Eligibility requirements apply; see the program conditions for details.
