We love Edmonton, Canada's "Winter Cities Guidelines." They serve as a perfect set of recommendations for communities looking to embrace their winters. High on our list is their winter patio concept that supports outdoor gathering spaces designed for year-round use.

The campfire story is such a great asset to our local culture. We love imagining public spaces with fire pits or fire places that become year-round infrastructure for celebration, relaxation, and conversation. Where would you like to see these? What's your design?
