Mom Made Foods Founder Honored by Washington Business Journal
Heather Stouffer, Founder and CEO of Mom Made Foods receives Women Who Mean Business Award

Alexandria, VA (October 1, 2014) – Mom Made Foods, maker of family-friendly, frozen organic prepared meals and snacks announces Founder and CEO Heather Stouffer as recipient of the Washington Business Journal Women Who Mean Business Award. In its 11th year, the Women Who Mean Business program celebrates influential businesswomen who have been a successful leader in making a difference at work and in their communities.

Heather Stouffer was one of 25 women selected among a plethora of candidates to be recognized by the Washington Business Journal for the award. Stouffer will be honored in the 2014 Women Who Mean Business event, held November 13, 2014 in Washington D.C. and featured in the Washington Business Journal issue released November 14, 2014. Candidates were judged on three criteria: professional accomplishments, community leadership and awards or milestones.

“It is such a great honor to be awarded,” said Heather Stouffer, Founder and CEO of Mom Made Foods. “I love what I do every day, and receiving this award confirms my passion for helping make parents lives a little easier while also making children healthier. It hasn’t been an easy road taking Mom Made Foods from the farmer’s market where I launched eight years ago to national distribution in grocery retailers, which makes this award even more special.”

Under the leadership of Heather Stouffer, Mom Made Foods has become the destination for parents in the frozen aisle searching for healthy, kid-friendly snacks and meals. Using USDA-certified organic and antibiotic-free ingredients, Mom Made Foods provides families with healthy versions of macaroni and cheese, spaghetti, low sodium meatballs and other kid-friendly food staples.

Washington Business Journal, along with title sponsor, Capital One Bank, will recognize the honorees at an evening awards program to be held November 13, 2014 at the Four Seasons Hotel. Registration information for the event is available at: www.WashingtonBusinessJournal.com/events.
