

Glencairn Museum Manners

Welcome to a Glencairn Museum program!

Glencairn is a very special building – it might remind you of a medieval castle. It was built by Raymond and Mildred Pitcairn and many, many craftspeople that they hired. It used to be the home of Raymond and Mildred, and their nine children! It is now a museum which you can experience through a traveling or digital program. Some of the objects that travel on the road with us are copies of ancient and medieval objects, but some are real. To keep the objects and you safe we have some important reminders to share with you. These reminders will also help us to have a great program experience even if we're meeting digitally. Here we go!

- Touching Objects

Please wait to be invited to touch any objects that we bring to a program with you and remember to be gentle with them. This keeps our objects safe so that many people can enjoy them.

- Participation

Please participate by raising your hand or waiting to be called on if you have a question, comment, or answer. This means we get to hear everyone's thoughts, and no one gets interrupted.

- Pictures

You are welcome to take pictures. Please don't use flash around museum objects and wait until your educator let's you know that it's a good time to do so.

- Grownups

Please allow students to participate fully by saving any questions you may have until the educator is no longer teaching and refraining from private conversations until after the program has ended. Your active attention during the program models great behavior for students!

If you're not sure what to do, please check with your educator. You can also use your role models to remind you – the grownups that are with you are a great example of how to have good museum manners if you forget!
