Misheberach on Behalf of Families Experiencing Abuse

May the One who blessed our ancestors Sarah, Rebecca, Leah, and Rachel, and Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob lead us out of the straits of this time, helping us to heal and be healed, to comfort and be comforted.

May the Holy One support those whose homes have become places of quarrel. May they find a sukkat shalom, a shelter of peace, above and around them, far from danger and struggle.

May the Holy One reveal to those who have caused harm that they do not exist alone, that their violence harms both body and soul.

May the Holy One bless our community with wisdom and a discerning ear, with courage and compassion, when we reach out to those who have been suffering in silence and shame. May all those seeking light in the darkness find through us refuge, strength, and possibility.

And let us say, amen.
