

COPYRIGHT INFRINGEMENT NOTICE & TAKEDOWN POLICY

Notification of Infringement:

Wash.systems abides by the federal Digital Millennium Copyright Act (DMCA) by responding to written notices of alleged infringement by legitimate copyright holders. As part of our response we may remove or disable access to allegedly infringing material residing on our website www.wash.systems and within the Wash.systems Service. Please note that Wash.systems does not control content hosted on any third party website and cannot remove content from any website it does not own or control.

To file a copyright infringement notification with Wash.systems, send a written communication to Wash.systems' Copyright Agent, as required by the DMCA, and provide the following information in writing:

- Identification of the copyrighted work that you claim has been infringed;
- Identification of the specific material that is claimed as infringing and information sufficient to permit Wash.systems to locate that material on our website or within the Service (providing a URL is the best way to help us locate the content quickly),
- A statement that you believe, in good faith, that the use of the material in the manner complained of is not authorized by the copyright owner, its agent, or by law;
- If you are not the copyright owner, a description of your relationship to the copyright owner;
- Your contact information, including your address, telephone number and email address you;
- A statement, under penalty of perjury, that the information in the notification is accurate and that you are the copyright owner or are authorized to act on behalf of the copyright owner; and
- A physical or electronic signature of a person authorized to act on behalf of the copyright owner.

Please note that under Section 512(f) of the DMCA, anyone who knowingly misrepresents that material or activity is infringing may be liable for damages and attorneys' fees incurred by the alleged infringer or by Wash.systems. Therefore, if you are not sure whether material infringes your copyright, you should first consider contacting an attorney.

Wash.systems' Response to Notifications

Following receipt of a proper written notice, Wash.systems will expeditiously remove or disable the allegedly infringing content. We will also notify the customer who submitted or posted the allegedly infringing material and provide them with a copy of the copyright infringement notice. We may suspend or terminate access to the Wash.systems Service of customers that repeatedly or egregiously infringe others' copyrights.

Counter Notification:

If a customer of the Wash.systems Service believes that their content was removed or disabled by mistake or misidentification, the customer can send us a written counter-notification that includes the following:

- The customer's contact information, including name, address, email and telephone number;
- Identification of the material that has been removed or to which access has been disabled and the location at which the material appeared before it was removed or disabled;
- A statement that the customer consents to the jurisdiction of the U.S. Federal District Court for the judicial district in which the customer is located (or if the customer is outside the U.S., the U.S. Federal District Court for the Northern District of California located in San Francisco, CA), and that you will accept service of process from the person who originally provided Wash.systems with the Infringement Notice;
- A statement under penalty of perjury that the customer has a good faith belief that the material was removed or disabled as a result of mistake or misidentification of the material to be removed or disabled; and
- A physical or electronic signature of the customer;

Please note that under Section 512(f) of the DMCA, any person who knowingly misrepresents that material or activity was removed or disabled by mistake or misidentification may be subject to liability.

Wash.systems will only accept counter-notices that meet the requirements set forth above and are properly submitted to our Copyright Agent. Upon receipt of a proper written counter notification, Wash.systems will provide the person that submitted the infringement notice with a copy of the counter notification and will, on or after 10 business days following receipt of the counter notification, restore the removed material to the Wash.systems Service unless our Copyright Agent first receives notice that a court action has been filed to restrain the customer from engaging in infringement related to the allegedly infringing material.
