

LOCATION:

5352 Routzong Road Greenville, OH 45331

FEATURES:

- 55 Acres of woodland and managed prairie
- Hiking trails (2 miles)
- Spring wildflowers & bird watching

Ronnie and Betty Johnson donated 35 acres, once known as Johnson Woods, for this breathtaking 55-acre preserve. From spectacular spring wildflowers to brilliant fall leaves, the beech/ maple forest of Routzong Preserve makes it an area of interest during every season. Visitors will find over 2 miles of trails to explore woodland and prairie with countless opportunities to enjoy nature in every season. The park is also the site of the Trees for Tomorrow Memorial Trail.

