ABOUT

LP Giobbi is a producer-DJ-music director-synth warrior goddess born draped in sequins and cloaked in fog at a seance in the mountains of Oregon. When she's not sharing stages with the likes of Jax Jones, Hotel Garuda, Gallant and Madame Gandhi, touring the world with Sofi Tukker (while helping run their label, Animal Talk), or curating music for W Hotels, she's jumping tits first into the world of fashion with her line, GIOBBI—a line of blouses and tees that celebrates the differences in all wild womxn, honoring the sacred feminine in all of us.

FEMMEHOUSE is the educational platform she created to address the lack of representation and equity in electronic music by empowering women to learn the language of the studio. FEMMEHOUSE leverages her rich network of artists to lead immersive workshops on practical recording skills—covering everything from using MIDI to how to work with vocalists. At MoogFest 2019, we launched our initiative with a panel led by LP Giobbi on how gender socialization impacts the choices women make when choosing their career paths in music, along with a preview of our workshops. In May, we'll kick things off with this networking mixer at Gibson HQ in Hollywood, CA with workshop sessions commencing in June.

"LP Giobbi is our favorite DJ. We saw her DJing one night and became obsessed and decided that we should become friends. Since then, she has been traveling all around the world with us and we have started a record label together. She has the best taste, best energy on stage of any DJ we have ever seen, and the way she shreds piano while DJing gives her sets the perfect feel of 90s house meets live music performance."

On her latest single, Dejala Pasar: "Perfect for summer...should be an Ibiza smash."
