

Industrial Maintenance Technician- Trainee

Spectro Alloy Corporation ($225M company) is a manufacturer and broker of aluminum alloys. Since 1973, we have been servicing large, medium and small foundries and die casters in the Midwest and beyond. We are proud to be in an industry that significantly reduces the impact of humans on the environment.

Position(s) will be on-the-job trained for the day-to-day maintenance activities on mechanical and basic electrical systems as well as troubleshooting calls. The trainee will eventually assume the following responsibilities

Responsibilities:

Responsible for mechanical and basic electrical maintenance, preventative maintenance and repairs. Will also ensure safe work practices, work quality, accuracy and maintain work records.

Mechanical/Electrical systems works includes but not limited to : plumbing, rigging, welding, gear reducers, gas reducers, gas trains, rolling and portable equipment, hydraulics, pneumatics, conveying systems, motor controls troubleshooting and repairing mechanical and basic electrical issues with production machinery and preventative maintenance on mechanical and electrical systems.

Qualifications:

- Trade school, basic mechanical aptitude, military training, and/or farm experience are plusses
- Strong communication skills
- Works well with limited supervision
- Able to work as a group or alone
- HVAC, furnaces and or boiler experience is a plus
- Company furnished hand and power tools for day-to-day work
- Confined space and respirator certification required(provided upon employment)
- Ability to lift 50-100 pounds
- Valid Driver's License
- Ability to pass a background check, physical, and drug screen

Computer Skills:

Basic Microsoft Windows and Office knowledge

Company Benefits:

We offer an excellent compensation and benefits Package includes: medical, dental, life, disability insurance, paid days off, paid holidays, 401(k) and more.