Description Of Presentation: Laura Nadine (<http://www.lauranadine.net>) and Chris Abildgaard will explore the complexities of navigating the social world and strategies to help develop greater social competencies. Laura is a successful woman with an Autism Spectrum Disorder and will walk us through her journey to finding tools and strategies to help her navigate the social world. During the second part of the morning, Chris and Laura will explore research-based and clinically sound (and practical) interventions to support social and executive function learning at home, at school, and within the counseling setting.
