BOLD AS BRASS

The wrought iron bed gets a 21st-century makeover in souped-up neon mint and yellow. The Wrought Iron & Brass Bed Company's zany designs include a four-poster bed constructed from scaffolding cast-offs. The vintage-style pieces retain their British heritage in simple, elegant styles, all hand made on the edge of the Queen's Sandringham Estate. From £599 for a double, plus £75 for coloured finishes. ### CHANNEL HOPPING

Traditional British upholstery meets French flair in George Smith's latest capsule collection by Jean-Louis Deniot. The nine-piece suite is composed of elegant, feminine lines, drawing on neoclassicism. With sumptuous fabrics in liveable colours with eye-catching piping, they're designed with enough character to stand alone in a room. From £1,500; georgesmith.co.uk

CATCH OF THE DAY

There's something fishy going on at

Decorum Est. They've launched a collection of tiles made from fish skins, yes, you heard that right. Scales of salmon, perch, wolf fish and cod have been layered with vellum and other luxury materials to create highly textured, one-of-a-kind surfaces. It's surprisingly strong and flexible, and patterns can be designed to spec.

£500 per sq/m. decorum-est.co.uk

ONTO A WINNER

Three cheers for the Trophy Lamp from Nika Zupanc's Collection III for Sé. Simple, futuristic, with a warming brassy glow, line them up in all four powdery colourways to evoke the spirit of the 1950s. £840; se-london.com

OUT OF THE CLOSET

It's hard to think of integrated storage as stylish, but Brilliant Project has nailed chic solutions. Having manufactured for big brands for 15 years, they've finally launched their own label online. So, you get to do the fun creative bit, and they'll make it happen, without any fuss. Their mix and match storage units and sliding doors come in 19 finishes, and the neutral colour palette means they can be slotted together. brilliantproject.com
