

ABSOLUTELY

NOVEMBER 2012
£3.95

Chelsea

MAKING THE CUT

THE FAIRYTALE
WORLD OF ARTIST
SU BLACKWELL

MARY QUANT
THE MAKING OF AN ICON

FUNNY GIRL

KEEPING MUM
WITH TAMSIN GREIG

DIVE IN
RICHARD CORRIGAN
UNDER THE GRILL

RUGGED CHARM

During this year's London Design Festival, rug brands Sanderson, Harlequin and newcomers Scion showcased their new creations at WovenGround on the King's Road. We love these fresh, bright designs that will add a dash of much-needed colour over the winter months. All rugs available from 570 King's Road, SW6; wovenground.com

Interior Inspirations

Gemma Billington eyes up a beauty of a bronze bath

PERFECT MATCH

John Coote and Gabriel Bernardi met in 2005 and realised their shared experience and background in specialist interiors made them natural business partners. Their new collection of bespoke furniture pays homage to some of the 20th-century's most influential designers such as André Arbus and Jean Michele Frank. 59 Pimlico Road, SW1W; cooteandbernardi.com

BRONZE AGE BEAUTY

The King's Road recently welcomed Decorum Est to the neighbourhood, a company that specialises in unique surface material such as metals, glass, marble and stone. Founders Steve Charles and David Abrams combine their shared expertise to source the very best craftsmen and artisans. 568 King's Road SW6; decorumest.co.uk

URBAN CHIC

Mooi, Kensington's concept store, has recently celebrated the launch of its online boutique. True, you're more likely to pick up a statement piece by one of their eclectic designers like Carven, Emma Cook and Raquel Allegra than see anything for your home, but we're big fans of the minimalist layout and urban, exposed brickwork interior. mooolondon.com