WINTER FEATURE FLIGHT: NEBBIOLO

TASTE

GLASS

BOTTLE

Powerful Nebbiolo, with its full body, dense and layered texture and complex aromas and flavors, is the ultimate cold weather red. It doesn't grow anywhere as well as it does in northwest Italy and while many regard Barolo and Barbaresco as its greatest expression there are several areas in and around Piedmont where it thrives.

504. Nebbiolo blend Castello Conti "Origini" (Alto Piemonte), Italy LOR14
The Conti sisters farm two hillside vineyards totaling one hectare of land in Boca, one of Piedmont's smallest DOCs (12 hectares total). The main grape is Nebbiolo but Croatina, Uva Rara, Vespolina, Barbera and Dolcetto all play complementing roles, producing a wine similar to Gattinara but a little more fresh and elegant. The Contis work very naturally and only use sulfur dioxide minimally at bottling.

513. Nebbiolo Produttori del Barbaresco Barbaresco, Piedmont, Italy '12
Roero lies at lower elevation, across the Tanaro River, just to the northwest of Barolo and Barbaresco. Matteo Correggia is the leading winery here and they produce an exemplary Nebbiolo from the sandy soils of the area. It's character is more rustic than its eastern neighbors but full and expressive.

525. Nebbiolo G. D. Vajra "Albe" Barolo, Piedmont, Italy '12
Aldo Vaira is one of the most respected winemakers in Barolo, having grown his reputation since taking over his family's vineyards in 1972. The winery is in the village of Vergne, on the west side of Barolo, and the Vairas own some of the top sites in the area. The "Albe" bottling comes from a blend of three sites that sit at different elevations with unique exposures. It makes a great intro to Barolo.
