

Engineer Stan Barauskas is photographed in Launch Control for Mission STS-2 at the Kennedy

Retired Boeing engineer Stan Barauskas is the proverbial rocket scientist. He helped design and worked on NASA's Lunar Module project. He was involved with the Apollo program and the Space Shuttle programs. Images– OC Register/ Stan Barauskas

Retired Boeing engineer Stan Barauskas poses with some of the spacecraft models he's collected including this 1-32 scale model of an Apollo Command and Service Module. OC Register

LA Times Image

Engineer Stan Barauskas, at left, poses with astronaut Mark Lee. Barauskas received his second Silver Snoopy award in 1987.

Created for the Aerospace Legacy Foundation by Larry Latimer

2018