Peer Support for All of Us

An Introduction to Certified Peer Specialist Programs in Perinatal Mental Health
Peer support is an evidence-based practice that:

- Improves outcomes and quality of life
- Reduces hospitalizations and cost of services for consumers

Through its focus on empowerment, mutuality, and the whole person, it has the power to fundamentally change how we approach and engage people around their mental health and wellbeing.

Peer support encompasses a range of activities and interactions between people who have shared similar experiences of being diagnosed with mental health conditions.

This mutuality – often called “peerness” – between a peer worker and person using services promotes connection and inspires hope.
Is Peer Support Recognized by the Federal Government?

YES!
SAMSHA, CMS, and HRSA to name a few

The Centers for Medicaid and Medicare Services (CMS):

- Has recognized the efficacy of using peer support in mental health since 2007.
  SAMHSA also recognizes Peer Support.

- Defines Peer Support Services As:
  “An evidence-based mental health model of care which consists of a qualified peer support provider who assists individuals with their recovery from mental illness.”

- Recognizes that the experiences of peer support providers, as consumers of mental health services, can be an important component in a State’s delivery of effective treatment.
What is a “Certified” Peer Specialist?

“Peer support providers must complete training and certification as defined by the State. Training must provide peer support providers with a basic set of competencies necessary to perform the peer support function.”

What does it mean to be certified?

- Those who are “certified” sit for a test through an agency identified by the state.
- The testing process ensures the peer retained key knowledge provided through training, and allows peers to be issued a professional credential.

- Every state except California has a peer specialist certification process.
- However, those processes and requirements look different across states as well as the types of mental health issues peers are allowed to engage in.
Can a Certified Peer Specialist Program Receive Reimbursement from Medicaid?

Most states reimburse for certified peer specialists billed time through their Medicaid programs.

At least 36 states offer providers the opportunity to bill Medicaid for mental health peer support services. They can do so through mechanisms such as a state plan amendment, the rehabilitation services option or a Medicaid waiver.

A few states also fund grant programs or other alternative financing to support peer specialists.
What do Peer Specialists Do?

Peer Workers Offer Different Types of Support, Including:

- Emotional (Empathy and Cmaraderie)
- Informational (Connections to Information and Referrals to Community Resrouces that Support Health and Wellness)
- Instrumental (Concrete Supports Such as Housing or Employment)
- Affiliational Support (Connections to Community Supports, Activities, and Events)
