A capital resource can be a factory of any kind, working tools and construction machines such as a digger, forklift, backhoe loader and even a oil pump.

Capital resources are goods made and used to produce other goods and services; examples include tools, machinery and buildings.