Sanctuary for people and wildlife

With towering bluffs, sparkling water and stately trees the Bruce Vento Nature Sanctuary is a true oasis of nature. But it will always be a work in progress.

It will take many growing seasons to recreate the habitat that existed here 200 years ago. This land is still recovering from more than a century of industrial use, and the forest, prairie and wetland ecosystems on this land are still in the early stages of restoration.

When the plants now being installed are mature, this land will look very different.

You can help this land come “full circle” back to nature. Call 651.772.2075 or visit www.phalencreek.org to find out how you can help!
