

About PrefabAUS

Established in 2013, prefabAUS is the Australia's peak industry body for off-site construction with membership now exceeding 200. PrefabAUS is committed to the growth of this sector and to seeing its members participate in that growth.

Our members include manufacturers of prefabricated buildings and modules, flat packs, bathroom pods and sub-assemblies, component suppliers, architects, engineers and other technical consultants, project managers, builders, clients, allied industry associations and academic researchers.

Activities

PrefabAUS holds industry networking events over the year as well as an annual conference which was in Melbourne in 2014 and 2015 and Sydney in October 2016. In 2015 PrefabAUS hosted US-based prefabrication expert Amy Marks for a series of presentations around Australia. PrefabAUS actively engages with other industry associations, government agencies/departments and research programs to ensure that Australia's prefabrication sector progresses rapidly and competitively.

Benefits of Student Membership

Becoming a member of PrefabAUS means that you are joining with like-minded businesses and individuals to help to advance Australia's prefabrication and off-site construction industry.

Individual Membership benefits include member discounts for your own attendance at PrefabAUS events as well as at our annual Conference and networking at our events.

Under the memorandum of understanding between PrefabAUS and our counterpart in New Zealand, PrefabAUS members also enjoy PrefabNZ member rates at all PrefabNZ events. In March 2016 PrefabAUS executed an alliance agreement with the Modular Building Institute (MBI) USA.

Student Members receive PrefabAUS communications by email. Our website, Newsletters and Member Circulars will help to keep you up to date with events and industry developments.
