

The PathHeights

Inspirational and spiritual songs with unmixed messages

Biography

The PathHeights are singer, songwriter, producer duo Akosua Aset and Aumuna. Deriving from the word Ptahites, meaning spiritual, creative being and conveying a collective conscious message. They started together back in 2012 and their sound is a smooth collaboration of Roots Acoustic Reggae with Poetry, giving it a stripped back, natural and organic sound. The African drums and acoustic guitar are very fundamental in their production, along with the incorporation of various kinds of percussion and the natural sounds in their environment.

The lyrical content of their songs is inspirational and spiritual with unmixed message, while being hard hitting and real.

The PathHeights organically RE-present a world sound, captivating audiences with melodies and harmonious vocals combined, to a rootical vibration with 100% live instruments.

Since 2013 they are based in Germany and have been working on their craft while gelling in an embryo of creative energy and inspiration. In 2014 inspired by life on a legends of cultural heritage, they decided to formally present a name for the group. At a rehearsal session they came through with the symbolic name 'The PathHeights'. From there on, they have been performing throughout Germany. In August of 2015 they went to Kingston, Jamaica.

Whilst in Jamaica, their initial goal of recording three songs resulted in the completion of their first nine-track EP and a video shoot for the single "Without Love". An unconventional yet traditional sound, stepping outside the laws of modern style recording to ensure each inspiration is captured and delivered as pure as can be, with no compromise.

In the light of the next generation of musicians, poised to take the musical art to the next round, The PathHeights are an assured Bridge. The release of a nine track EP is a true testament of their world sound that fuels the drive to continue on a conscious movement.

Enriched with experiences working with artists, studio engineers and promoters from various genres and cultural influences, The PathHeights have covered a fair amount of ground. The unit now confidently stands in a place where their next step forward will be to share their music with a wider audience.

Music Download

Single

"Without Love"

Single

"Haven't you heard"

Single

"We A Chant"

Single

"Like You"

Video

The PathHeights – Without Love

Building on the legacy of the pioneers of the Roots Reggae vibration brought to the world by the Rastafar-I community, The PathHeights have displayed here with their first single entitled "Without Love" that they tuned in and geared to continue creating that authentic sound conveying an ever conscious message . . . Introducing The PathHeights.

Contact

For booking and other inquiries please email:
contact@thepathheights.com

