

Island School

Environmental Art Teacher

The Island School is a high school study-abroad semester program on the island of Eleuthera in The Bahamas, part of a multi-faceted non-profit organization with ambitious research, education, and conservation objectives. With the campus and surrounding ocean as our laboratories, we partner with a world-class science research facility. Together, we engage in the process of inquiry in order to discover sustainable solutions to real world problems. The Island School experience culminates in the beginning of a lifelong educational journey, with more self-confident students leaving as engaged global citizens, empowered to be active leaders of their generation.

Position Description

The Island School is seeking an art educator who has demonstrated a career commitment to teaching and is excited about doing so in our remote community setting starting August 1. The Environmental Art course encourages students to develop a personal relationship with the landscape, provides them with tools to become keen observers of their surroundings, and requires them to view the natural world as both the canvass and materials for their artwork. Applicants for these positions should have a strong background in the visual arts (drawing and sculpture, especially), art education, or environmental art.

While the primary responsibility of our teachers is to deliver progressive, thoughtful coursework in their area of expertise, they must also be able to juggle myriad responsibilities beyond academics. This includes supporting the morning exercise program, doing chores alongside the students, and countless smaller duties associated with running a boarding program, often requiring a presence into the evenings and over the weekends. Medical training, experience in SCUBA instruction, kayaking and outdoor leadership skills are also beneficial.

Responsibilities

- Teaching 4 sections of 13 students in Environmental Art, with some combined sections.
- Advisor for 3-6 students
- Residential Duty
- Morning Exercise and Chores with community
- Kayak program support, if applicable
- Cultural Contact program support, if applicable
- This is an overview of the position, but responsibilities are not limited to the above list.
