The Reverend Dr. Gardner has resigned from the Presidency of Nashotah House, in the Diocese of Milwaukee. The Bishop of Milwaukee, however, remains President of the Board of Trustees. The Institution will go on. Our Nashotah League, which was formed under Dr. Gardner's influence, must do its duty.

Lost, Strayed or Stolen, some time between October 24th and November 7th, the "Platform of the Church Standard," from the opening page of that able weekly paper. It was those four articles, which have been nicknamed "The Quadrilateral."

Some may say, that as no Secretarian body has been captured within its four-sided lines, therefore the Standard has been taken down from its own platform.

It may be, rather, that the Standard has opened its tenth volume in the true interests of the Prince of Peace, and in this way gives its Christmas present of Peace to the Church.

When one reflects how many Catholics there are in all our large cities who are to all intents and purposes as much unattached as the Protestants, who make up the most part of Mr. Moody's audiences, there arises a feeling of regret that we Catholics have not some sort of agency at work corresponding to Mr. Moody and his work. If these Catholics, for one reason or other, will not come to the Church, it may be well asked might not some one, on behalf of the Church, go to them?—Catholic Review (Roman).

We do not see the new Boston paper, called the Church, regularly, but a copy of the November number was sent us by a friend. The chief purpose of the publication seems to be to snarl at bishops and other ministers, and to protest against church doctrine and usages. Bishop Walker gets a rap as a man of too small calibre for his new Diocese of Western New York, and the custom of respectfully rising when a bishop enters a room is deprecated. The Church gives its idea of the true test of a valid ministry as follows: "The ministry which 'gets there,' understanding that phrase in its profoundest signification, is the ministry whose orders are most truly valid."

There is a real danger lest applying this profound test, a subsequent number of The Church may conclude that Anglican orders are invalid—in New England.

On the whole, a perusal of this issue of the paper does not give one the impression that it stands for ideals which are high and noble, or even broad, according to the old meaning of the term. We have a suspicion that since Bishop Brooks' death, Massachusetts Churchmanship has developed to such a breadth as to become flat.

Here is a sample of the way they do things in Boston. We take the article, without change, from one of our New England papers:

"The Unitarian and Phillips Brooks Clubs recently had a dinner together in Boston, and, of course, there are no disputes over a meal, when everyone gets their share. Good feeling reigned. Dr. Edward E. Hale patted an Episcopalian on the back, and declared: 'You are a tip-top fellow,' and then an Episcopalian reciprocated the cordial touch by saying: 'We all believe alike, and let's have quail on toast now.' They ate the dear bird together, and pass on to the next course. Everyone was happy and settled their theological differences over Frenchy dishes. The digestive powers of our church are certainly improving."

When Romanists endeavor to undermine the religious faith of those whom they hope some day to call "converts." it is their custom to affirm that the Roman Church is all peace and harmony within, and that, in their Church, internal dissensions have no existence. Is it not indiscreet, then, for the Ave Maria, a magazine published at the Roman Catholic University of Notre Dame, to let the cat out of the bag? Will not such words as the following give the lie to many of their own most zealous recruiting sergeants? But, perhaps, "converts" wont see these words until they are "converted."

"We [Roman Catholics] are in danger of becoming a divided host ourselves in this country. A spirit of faction has taken possession of us. A decade of years ago all was harmony. The Church grew, prospered, and gained continually in powers and numbers. A more encouraging condition could not be imagined. But a lamentable change, evident to the least observant, has since come over us. Peace has been destroyed, and progress arrested, as far as it is possible. In our dissensions decency has been outraged, charity wounded, truth and justice violated."

We are glad to hear that another Massachusetts parish has a daily Mass. Fr. Prime, of St. Margaret's Church, Brighton, now celebrates daily, as well as twice on Sundays. We have long watched this parish and its priest as an example of brave perseverance in the face of great difficulties. We extend our congratulations to both priest and people.

Large legacies have recently been left to two New York parishes. By the will of the late Mrs. W. H. Vanderbilt, St. Bartholomew's Church received $2500.00 for its Mission on 48th St.; and the Church of St. Edward the Martyr is said to have received an equal amount by the bequest of a parishioner recently deceased.

THE ARROW.

THE PARISH.

The Sunday School Christmas Tree was on Tuesday night, December 29th, when a large attendance of scholars and friends were cheered. There was hearty singing. Every child enjoyed a bountiful spread of eatables, and carried away a box of candy.

The Guild Christmas Trees will be during the week of the new year beginning with the Epiphany.

The Sister reports that the Mission House stands in need of some household furnishings. Gifts of linen and crockery would be very acceptable; also some chairs and tables for the Guild Room. Besides this, help is required in order to prepare the Hospital Ward for the reception of patients.

The Class for ecclesiastical embroidery meets at the Mission House, on Monday afternoons, at 2:30 P.M. Ladies interested in the work, are requested to make application to Sister Mary Maude, either during the session of the class, or on any afternoon in the week.

The Catholic Club will hold a special service on the night of the Fourth Sunday after Epiphany in this Church. There will be a sermon. On Monday night, February 1st, a reunion in the Men’s Club-room. High Mass on Tuesday morning, February 2nd. Purification S. M. V., at 9:30.

We have duplicate copies of several back numbers of The Arrow over and above the regular complement we keep on file for binding, etc., which we will send free, as long as they last, to persons wishing to circulate them as tracts. Those applying should send name and address to The Arrow, 145 West 46th St., New York.

EXCHANGES:—The 204 Exchanges regularly received by The Arrow are kept on file in the Men’s Guild Rooms. The following new exchanges are acknowledged:

A WELL-KNOWN Worcester clergyman tells a good story at his own expense. In his younger days he was tramping through the White Mountains with a companion, who was also a clergyman. One day they mounted the driver’s seat of a stage coach. The driver was an interesting character, loaded with good stories. The three speedily became friendly, and it was with reluctance that they parted at the end of the journey. “I’m glad ter hev met yer, fellers,” said the driver, in farewell. “Yer see, I heven’t seen a man this summer, exceptin’ ministers.” —Boston Evening Record.

The New York Tribune, of December 17th, leaves its readers to infer what they will as to the possible baptism of a baby hippopotamus in Central Park.

“A MARBLE High Altar and Reredos have been erected at St. Thomas’ Church, in memory of Rev. Dr. W. F. Morgan, sometime rector. The general outline is good, and the marble brightens the gloom of the chancel. The design, however, is flimsy, shopkeeper’s architecture, at hopeless discord with both the dignity of the building and the high character of the decorations.

The Epiphany, as a prayer book feast, seems to be restricted by the language of the book—

"The Manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles."

It is a Western festival, and has always commemorated the guiding of the Magi to Christ by the wonderful star which appeared in the East. On that occasion, the wise men, who have been supposed to have been taught, in Jewish traditions, which were carried to the East at the time of the captivity, were probably taught of the meaning of the prophecy, "there shall come a star out of Jacob, and a sceptre shall rise out of Israel." They made their way to Judea; from the court of the king they proceeded to the house where the young child was, and there they offered gifts which the Church holds to have been "figurative of Our Lord as God and Man, King of Kings, and Lord of Lords." The gold symbolized His kingly authority; the frankincense, worship due to His divinity; the myrrh, His sacrifice, death and burial, in His Humanity. Thus there was manifestation of the Divine Personality of Christ to the Gentile nations whom the three kings represented.

There was also a feast of the Epiphany observed in the Eastern Church. It commemorated Our Lord's Nativity and His Baptism; His natural birth, as well as His Baptism. It was termed the Day of Lights. Concerning this feast, the Apostolical Constitutions say: "Keep holy the feast of the Epiphany, for then the Godhead of Christ was made manifest; the Father gave testimony to Him in Baptism, and the Paraclete descended, in the form of a dove, upon Him of whom this testimony was affirmed."

Synonymous with Epiphany is the word Theophany, by which the Fathers have signified the manifestation of God to His servants under the Old Covenant. It does not involve the notion of manifestation of deity in the inscrutable essence. It does not refer to God the Father, for we read in Exodus: "Then shall no man see Me and live"; in St. John's Gospel: "No man hath seen God at any time"; in St. Paul's First Epistle to St. Timothy: "Whom no man hath seen nor can see". The Fathers of the Church so generally assert that Christ, the Logos, the Word, appeared to holy men of old, that this explanation of the Theophanies may be accepted as the positive faith of the Church.

The Epistle to St. Timothy: "The angel of the Lord appeared unto Moses, in a flame of fire, out of the midst of a bush...and said: 'I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.' Moses hid his face, for he was afraid to look upon God...and God said unto Moses: 'I AM THAT I AM...Thus shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, the Lord hath sent me unto you.' There was a similar appearance of God the Son, to Abraham, at Mamre; to Jacob, at Penueon; to Joshua, at Gilgal; and there are others, which we need not mention now, all of which we understand to be the only Begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father. He hath revealed Him. These appearances were evidently foreshadowings of the Incarnation. To this central truth, such angelic ministrations are distinctly referred.

There is a third use of the word in the Scriptures, which refers to the manifestations of Christ in His second advent. "The Lord shall consume with the spirit of His mouth, and shall destroy with the brightness (or manifestation) of His coming." "Keep this Commandment without spot, unrebukable, until the appearing of Our Lord, Jesus Christ." "The Lord, Jesus Christ, shall judge the quick and the dead at His appearing." So that this is the last manifestation of Christ, to the world, in the glory of His majesty.

Those who live in the atmosphere which the Epiphany or manifestation of Christ indicates, find that their soul breathes a freer air and enjoys a more exalted life. From time to time there are, undoubtedly, larger views communicated to the thoughtful soul. Every such enlargement of vision discovers more and more of the truth as it is in Jesus. All the heroes of Christianity have become heroes illuminated by this divine light. The opening of the spiritual eye by increased knowledge of the Son of God, comes in prayer, meditation, study of the Written Word, in absolution, in Holy Communion. In Christian practices of charity, and all such good works as God has prepared for us to walk in, the heart beats more kindly, because the eye sees more clearly. He who brings gold, frankincense and myrrh, in recognition of the manifestations of divinity, is blessed not only in kneeling before his sacred King, but also in seeing that King in his fellow-man.
THE MISSION HOUSE.

The Mission work of the Parish is to some, even of our own people, but little known. A visit to the Mission House, where they would be made very welcome by the Sister in charge, might give them a new insight into what is accomplished there, week by week. On Friday afternoons, the Children's Guild of St Mary of the Angels is a busy and a happy scene. Nearly a hundred boys and girls, under twelve years of age, are on the roll, including some tiny mites, only two and three years old, who form a very attractive "baby class." The weekly attendance is from seventy to eighty—a very large percentage—which, in itself, proves the interest taken by the children. The Guild of St. Mary of the Cross, for women, and of St. Mary of the Annunciation, for working girls, which meet on Wednesday and Thursday evenings respectively, are also faithfully attended. Some of the members have belonged for fifteen years, since the organization of the Guilds. The girls are very anxious to have a class in calisthenics and simple gymnastic exercises. This could easily be done if someone who is competent to undertake it, would volunteer their services, for there is a large room, suitable for a gymnasium, in the basement of the Mission House, which is already used by the Children's Guild for their kindergarten games and exercises. On Saturday mornings, the Industrial School of the Parish meets throughout the winter months. Here the little girls are taught to sew, in the most practical manner, upon garments, which, when finished, the children are allowed to take home for themselves. The School is entirely dependent for support upon the donations of material or money contributed by those interested in the work.

Of course, the families of those who weekly attend these meetings are all known and visited by the workers in the Mission House. There are at present 137 families on the regular list of those, who, generally faithful to their duties, may be termed "our own people," and as such, call upon us in time of sickness and need for help, spiritual and temporal. In cases of illness, orders for medicine are always freely given when applied for, and, when necessary, patients have received medical attendance in their own homes gratuitously. When a death occurs, and funds are needed for funeral expenses, help has been obtained on the matter being reported to Guild of All Souls (the burial guild) of the Parish. At times of birth, where the family is poor, a complete outfit is provided for the baby, together with whatever is necessary for the mother during her sickness. This branch of the work is a great boon. In many ways the past year has been a hard one for the working classes, and there has been much poverty and distress, because the breadwinners have been out of work. In consequence there have been many calls for aid of various kinds. Some hundreds of garments have been given away, as well as food and delicacies for the sick, which have been sent in for distribution. In addition to this some help has been given, in worthy cases, towards the payment of rent, where the alternative would have been the turning of a whole family out into the street. An effort is now being made to meet one form of need amongst our poor, by establishing an Employment Society, which is to give out work to poor women. This is under the manage-
Instructions; in short, a written examination in eight sections. Then follows the Confirmation Office, and two tracts upon the Spiritual preparation of the candidate by self-examination and prayer, and general directions and devotions for the day itself. The instruction does not go more into detail than to adduce the Scriptural warrant for Confirmation, and the points of the Church Catechism.

As for the method of written examination, the author may have found it convenient for himself; but as far as general experience goes, we think that, particularly with the young, a larger and more definite Catechism learnt by rote is much more successful. In the first place it has been confessed by so learned a body as the Convocation of Canterbury, that the Catechism is incomplete. There is much that is most important which it does not touch. Therefore it is not a sufficient text for instruction. It tells nothing of the Church, its four great characteristic marks, its object, its origin, its authority, its spiritual powers and those of its officers. It is meagre in instruction upon the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and the Commandments. There is much more definite knowledge required in present day language upon both Baptism and the Holy Communion, and upon the “five other commonly called Sacraments”. So that in our judgment, the matter though taken up with all possible precision, is too narrow for a basis of instruction even when perfectly learnt. We consider a good Catechism, like that of the Rev. William McGarvey, or that of the Rev. F. E. Mortimer, to be far superior in usefulness in instructing souls in the Christian Religion.

The American Church Almanac and Year Book for 1897.
The Living Church Quarterly, for the Year of Our Lord, 1897.
The Christian Year, or Church Kalendar, from Advent, 1896, to Advent, 1897.

These three publications offer themselves as Church Almanacs for the coming year. The first two give much useful information as to the state of the Church and its work, its institutions, its charities and religious orders, valuable for every Churchman. The Living Church Quarterly has, for the first time, in each diocesan list, the official seal of the diocese. Both give extended book notices of the Church books of the year. The Living Church Quarterly also sets out a “Guide to the Best Books”, in the departments of Theology, the Bible, Evidences, History, Biography, Hymnology, etc., compiled by favor of various well known clergy, whose judgment has been respected. It is a very useful feature.
The Church Kalendar has its valuable information on Catholic doctrine and practice rearranged, with the added features of the last two Pastoral of the House of Bishops.

It is a pity, however, that none of them is exact enough; as an almanac to place in the Sacristy as a guide to Sacrists. They are all inaccurate and unreliable as to the changing of colors for different seasons and days, and cannot be depended upon for a statement as to which takes precedence when two feasts fall on the same day. This year, St. Mark’s Day comes on Low Sunday and has to be omitted. There used to be in the Church Kalendar unless we mistake, a “Table of Occurrence and Concurrence”, copied from ancient uses. It was a very important feature, and ought to be restored and used. We do not see it now. The Church Almanac has an attempt at supplying the demand, but it is very feeble and does not provide for necessary transfers and suppressions. The Church Almanac endeavors also, to provide hymns in place of Gloria in Excelsis on our Prayer Book holy days, which is a great error. According to ancient usage, all the festival days retained in the Prayer Book should have Te Deum and Gloria in Excelsis.

If we could have one Kalendar of the Ecclesiastical Year carefully compiled and to be depended upon, it would be a great aid to uniformity.

An odd experiment with the kinetoscope took place not long ago in Boston. The subject was a man eating his dinner, and the film, prepared especially for the occasion, was of unusual length, so that the whole performance could be recorded. The man entered the room, and, seating himself at a table, proceeded to cut up the food. The motion of the fork from the plate to his lips was carefully recorded until the last morsel of food had vanished. Then he arose and walked out of the room, leaving nothing on the table but bare dishes. The series of pictures was then reversed. It showed the man entering the room, walking backward. He sat down at the table upon which there was nothing but bare dishes, and proceeded to extract food from his lips until he had filled the potato dish with potatoes and gradually put together a steak on the platter before him. Then he calmly backed out of the room, and the waiter did likewise with the meal that the man had apparently created.—Sun.

One is often brought by circumstances to places of interest; for instance, we were invited last week to attend what the society papers called “a fashionable wedding", at Dalston, four miles from Carlisle. It may interest your lady readers to know that on entering the church, the bridesmaids walked behind the bride and not before, as with us. The bridal couple knelt when they joined hands and the ring was given. We were impressed with the dignity and beauty of the English marriage service, and the fact that all marriages must be in the daytime, an improvement on our American fashion of evening weddings in church, with guests in evening dress in God’s house, and all the glare of gas or electric lights. The church at Dalston has been most beautifully restored, and the altar has cross and candles.—Living Church.

The Men’s Guild of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, held a remarkably enthusiastic meeting on Tuesday night, December 28th. The attendance was very large. Some very practical questions were discussed and well considered projects put under way. The winter season has opened well for the Club. At the close of the meeting, a committee of the women of the Parish entertained them with a feast.

A NEW WORK OF ART.

ELLIOTT DAINGEBFIELD’S Masterpiece, a
MADONNA AND CHILD.

Photographed from the original, in three sizes.

1st.—Plain Photograph, 6 1/2 x 9, on 8 x 10 thick Mount, gold bevelled edge, - Price, $1.00
2d.—Plain Photograph, 10 x 12, print on 11 x 14, thick Mount, gilt bevelled edge, - Price, $1.25
3d.—Carbon Photograph, 10 x 12, print 16 x 20 Mount, on white, grey, tea or granite Mounts, - Price, $1.50

The profile of the Madonna’s face is wonderfully expressive and sweet, and the face of the Christ Child is not that of a baby simply, it is rather a type of babyhood, and in the deep expression of the eyes, is felt the solemn majesty the Christ Child should have. In the light and shade of the picture, this face seems to radiate the whole light of the picture, streaming from the central note out through the rest of the canvas, luminous light passes, absorbing, taking up forms here and there, until all the centre of the composition is illuminated by the face, so that one feels the words, “I am the light of the World.” All these masterly effects have been faithfully reproduced in the photograph.
