Diane Tomash: Plein-Air Paintings & Prints
Landscape Paintings and Monotypes at Seaview Resort in Galloway

GALLOWAY, NJ – The Noyes Museum of Art of Stockton University is pleased to host an exhibition of recent award-winning work by accomplished painter and printmaker Diane Tomash at the Noyes Gallery at Seaview Resort. A plein-air painter by nature, the artist's current work explores the dynamic between earth and air. She seeks out ephemeral moments when light dominates the perception of space and time. The artwork will be on view May 5 – August 28, 2016 at the Seaview Resort in Galloway.

Tomash has long created images of landscapes that echo the topography of the human mind. Primarily painting en plein-air or “in the open air,” Tomash seeks to create landscapes that convey the emotion that she feels at different times of the day and in different weather conditions. As the artist states, “The inexplicable, undeniable reality of nature is a true inspiration. Painting on location is important to me. Capturing nature’s ever changing moods is a challenge which provides great satisfaction. Many of the on-location paintings and drawings become the source for larger studio works.” The colors of the sky, line quality of clouds and vegetation, and demarcation of distance all work together to inform the moods of these works.

Tomash graduated from the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts and the Newark School of Fine and Industrial Art. She has exhibited at fine arts institutions across the country, including the National Academy and the Salmagundi Club. She has won numerous awards and accolades throughout her career, including the prestigious Gold Medal of Honor from the Catherine Lorillard Wolfe Art Club. Her work has appeared in the Press of Atlantic City, International Artist Magazine, and Who’s Who in America. She has taught art throughout southern New Jersey for several years, most recently at the Noyes Museum.
