To Coincide with 2nd Annual “Hammonton Food Truck Festival”

HAMMONTON, NJ – On Saturday, June 11, from 4:30 to 9:30pm, the Noyes Shop in Hammonton will host its 2nd annual juried, outdoor artisan show, The Starving Artist Fair. The Starving Artist Fair coincides with the Hammonton Food Truck Festival, which will feature 30+ food trucks! This fine art and craft show will line South Second Street and feature imaginative artwork from local and regional artists. The Starving Artist Fair will display a variety of handmade goods including: jewelry, ceramics, glass items, paintings, prints, leatherwork and more! While shopping, local band Hofenakus, of Mays Landing, will serenade the crowds on South Second Street. This inventive trio blends guitar, upright bass, viola, and vocals in a mix of classic covers and originals. Visitors will be able to try a variety of delicious food and indulge their cravings for regionally made artisan goods.

The Hammonton Food Truck Festival promises to be an evening of unique street eats that will satisfy every taste bud in addition to local art and entertainment. This year, there will be 50% more trucks, 50% more space, 50% more entertainment and 100% more fun. The Hammonton Food Truck Festival will have over 30 trucks offering extensive food options including specialty soup, artisanal fries, chicken wings, homemade ice cream, Asian-infused cuisine, and even gourmet donuts, just to name a few.
