Marie Natale
Noyes Gallery at Seaview

Marie Natale is a watercolor painter who continues to expand her artistic range, creating not only brilliant paintings but successfully running her own business. She attained her master’s in art education at Rowan University and has been a strong advocate for art education ever since. Natale taught in the public-schools for ten years during which time she won the “Teacher of the Year Award.” She continues to teach in her own studio, sharing her talent with artists of all ages in the South Jersey community, as well as in Florida and France.

Among Natale’s many accomplishments, she has designed for both Exit Zero magazine in Cape May as well as Ocean City Magazine. A Signature Artist Member of the Noyes Museum of Art, she has exhibited widely and received the Gold Medal of Honor in Aquamedia from Audubon, Inc. in 2013. She has collected many awards both locally and nationally.

Natale’s soft-blended style of watercolor captures a variety of scenery from her travels. This collection of watercolor paintings has a familiarity to it, showing distinct locations in southern New Jersey, Philadelphia, Hammonton and the Jersey Shore. Her unique style has captivated and drawn admirers and collectors and will continue to be celebrated by The Noyes Museum of Art of Stockton University.

For more information about Marie Natale visit: http://www.marienatale.com/
The Noyes Museum of Art of Stockton University / www.noyesmuseum.org / (609) 626-3420
The Noyes Arts Garage of Stockton University / www.artsgarageac.com / (609) 626-3805
Check us out on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram and YouTube