ELEVATED LIVING

THE RESIDENCES VICEROY SNOWMASS DEBUTS TWO NEW PENTHOUSES THAT RAISE THE BAR ON MOUNTAIN LUXURY.

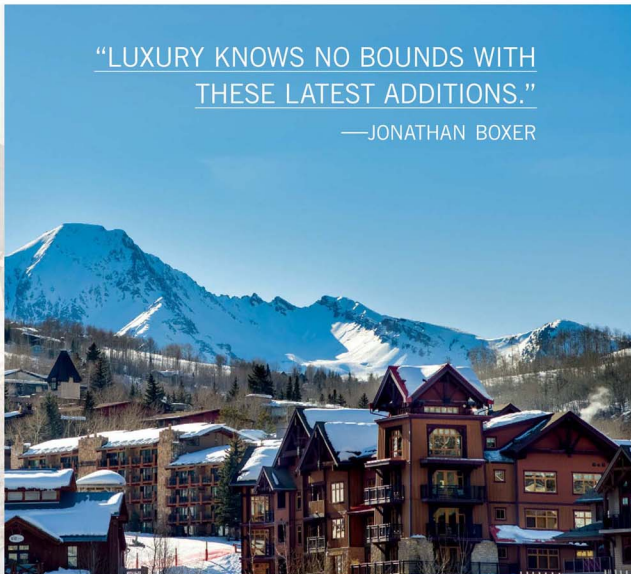

At more than 8,000 feet above sea level, Snowmass Village already towers high over most towns. But the two new penthouses at The Residences Viceroy Snowmass are helping put the neighborhood in a class all its own. "Luxury knows no bounds with these latest additions," says Jonathan Boxer, director of sales at Coldwell Banker Mason Morse, the brokerage for the project.

The two penthouse options are a 3,474-square-foot, four-bedroom unit set on two levels, and a 2,169-square-foot, three-bedroom single-level unit. Both are designed with warm hues and refined textures accented by wood-plank flooring, hand-crafted wool carpets, and plush, oversize furniture—and, naturally, a large fireplace in each.

The new penthouses—as well as The Residences' studio, one-, and two-bedroom units—offer a cosmopolitan reprieve from some of Snowmass's more dated real estate. Owner bragging rights include access to the resort's lauded spa (Ute Indian-inspired therapies, anyone?) and unexpectedly modern eateries (poolside dining for après ski? Yes, please!). For the constant traveler, the Snowmass suites and accompanying full-service resort mean you'll never have to leave home—even for Aspen. The Residences Viceroy Snowmass, 130 Wood Road, Snowmass Village, 855-923-4500; viceroy-snowmassales.com ■
