RSV CEO DEBBIE MARCOULIER APPOINTED TO VANCOUVER PUBLIC FACILITIES DISTRICT

VANCOUVER, Wash. – (May 9, 2017) – The Vancouver City Council has appointed Debbie Marcoulier to the five-member Public Facilities District that oversees the Hilton Hotel and convention center property. Her term continues through November 2020 and may be extended.

Marcoulier is the President and CEO of the Design Build contractor RSV Building Solutions, a position she assumed in 2015 after joining the 25-plus person firm 2004 and progressing from part-time front desk employee. She serves on the Board of Innovative Services NW, participates in a Vistage CEO business group, and earned a business degree from Concordia University.

“I am looking forward to giving back to our thriving local community by serving in this capacity,” said Ms. Marcoulier. “We all have benefited from the economic stimulus of a convention center and hotel in place for more than a decade.”

Headquartered in downtown Vancouver, RSV Building Solutions is a locally-owned Design Build contractor that provides construction leadership for business and nonprofit clients pursuing new construction, remodeling, maintenance and tenant improvements. RSV has a 40-year track record of construction projects in the Portland-Vancouver metropolitan area for corporate, industrial, healthcare, retail and nonprofit clients. Area business leaders have voted RSV as the region’s top Design Builder for three straight years (Vancouver Business Journal).
