Tier trainings have been on hold for the last three months while new funding arrangements were being finalised. Meanwhile, the Secretariat continued to follow up action plans from participants of training undertaken in previous years. The lessons learnt by SAIs from previous trainings are important information for the Secretariat in improving and developing future capacity development programs. Therefore, the Secretariat asks the Heads of SAIs for their continuous cooperation and support in ensuring staff who attended these trainings submit the required reports.

IDI hosted a planning and prioritisation meeting with representatives from the seven INTOSAI regional working groups in Oslo, Norway on 1–3 December 2014. Fifteen representatives from the seven regional working groups attended the meeting. PASAI was represented by Mr Allen Parker, Director of Audit of Cook Islands and member of the Governing Board and Ms Sinaroseta Palamo-Iosefo, PASAI’s Capacity Building Advisor. The meeting was an opportunity for IDI to present its priority programs identified from the Global Survey circulated to the INTOSAI community in 2013.

The following programs were the top priorities presented by IDI and discussed during the meeting:
- institutional capacity development
- enhance eLearning capacity
- SAI stakeholder relations
- strategy, performance and reporting
- supporting ISSAI implementation (including certification)
- enhancing SAI role in countering fraud and corruption
- SAI young leaders.

During a ‘shift and share’ session, the IDI team provided further details on the proposed programs to be offered to the regions from 2015 to 2018. The proposed programs covered the seven priorities identified above. Regional representatives provided feedback and comments about the different programs and also identified programs their regions would be interested in. The regions also shared their priorities and capacity needs. Regional representatives also commented on existing programs related to the priority programs as well as available resources that IDI and other regions can use.

One of the sessions involved open discussions with IDI’s development partners. Development partners were informed about the proposed programs and the partners provided feedback on what IDI plans to deliver to the INTOSAI community in the next five years. Participants also got a sense of what the development partners think of the proposed programs and what they are interested in supporting.

The meeting was a useful forum to get a broader understanding of IDI’s proposed programs and what they plan to deliver in the next five years. The meeting was also an opportunity to learn more about the capacity development programs other regions undertake and to establish networks with other regions for knowledge sharing between regions. PASAI’s strategic priorities are covered in IDI’s proposed programs.

IDI also found the meeting beneficial for obtaining regional perspectives on their proposed programs to assist them design the programs according to the needs of the regions. They have considered suggestions from development partners as well as regional representatives for possible changes in the design of certain programs.
