DEADLY PLAGUE BREAKS OUT AT CONFERENCE

BILDERBERG CONFERENCE PUT ON LOCKDOWN

A life-threatening plague has broken out at the Bilderberg Conference, forcing delegates to wear medical masks in order to avoid contracting the deadly virus.

The disease was accidentally introduced to the conference by an unnamed scientist, who spilled a sample of contaminated material into the conference room during a presentation on ways to prevent the spread of said disease. At least one member of the committee was immediately infected, showing symptoms including melanoma, uncontrollable vomiting, and seizures.

The conference has broken into a state of panic as there are fears that the disease could potentially spread to outside the conference.

Medical officials on-site have stated that the disease is unlike anything they have ever seen before. "We're dealing with what we like to call a smart disease, meaning it has the ability to change its genetic makeup, which makes it much, much harder to approach from a prevention standpoint," an official said.

As fears grow that the disease could spread outside of the conference itself, it is highly likely at this stage that other committee members will contract the disease. No deaths have been reported yet as a result of the disease, although officials fear that, if a cure is not developed soon, delegates will likely die.

Other findings coming out of the 2060 Bilderberg Conference are equally startling, as scientists at the conference claim that approximately 60% of the global population of fish have been wiped out. Officials claim that worldwide ocean-water pollution levels have reached an all-time high, and are beyond the point of repair. "We're screwed," one unnamed official said.

SYRIANS CALL FOR PRESIDENT'S DEATH

Despite his extensive studies of ophthalmology at Western Eye Hospital in London, United Kingdom, even Syrian President Bashar al-Assad cannot see why kids love Cinnamon Toast Crunch™ so much! President al-Assad also can't seem to figure out why Syrians are taking to the streets in masses, calling for his head on a stake!

[NOTE FROM GUEST EDITOR JEB BUSH: Please laugh.]

TERRORISTS SEIZE CONTROL OF BACK ROOM

Terrorists have instilled an ever-growing sense of terror (no pun intended, but we should have seen it coming) in the Crisis back room, as multiple groups of extremists have used the location to film propaganda videos.

Several times throughout committee session, groups of extremists stormed into the room with hostages donning burlap sacks on their heads to block their vision. The extremists are calling for different things, including death to Syrian President Bashar al-Assad.

"In a lot of cases, we stand on very different sides than our protesting civilian counterparts, for instance issues of fair trade and environmental issues. So it's really nice to see that we can all agree on one thing: Bashar al-Assad must die," one anonymous terrorist said.

Extremists have promised to find different filming locations for future productions, to the delight of back-room staffers.

GORBACHEV STABBED TO DEATH

President of the Soviet Union, Mikhail Gorbachev, was stabbed to death this afternoon, as questions have been raised over the nature of his death. A spokesperson for Gorbachev's office was on record questioning the details released behind the assassination. "Reports of President Gorbachev's death have been greatly exaggerated," said Pavel Palazhchenko, a spokesperson from the Soviet President's office. "President Gorbachev is under a great amount of stress leading this great country of the Soviet Union. He recently received a treatment for issues relating to insomnia that he has been experiencing. This is not death. It is a skin treatment to help him sleep." Palazhchenko was then pulled back into Gorbachev's funeral services.

SNOWFALL TOMORROW?

From the social clubs of Midtown to the big banks of Wall Street, New Yorkers love their snow. Luckily, the city will likely get the first taste of snowfall tomorrow. Anthony Lee, one prominent New Yorker, was quoted saying, "I LOVE SNOW!!!!!!!!!!!!!!" Officials will be on high alert as the snowfall begins, as things can quickly get out of hand in snowy conditions.

MESSAGE FROM PAKISTAN

A member of the Pakistani delegation issued a confusing statement during a committee meeting for the UNEP. "If the sun is not shining, we will not be here anymore," they said, according to a person who was present at the meeting. Yeah, well then how does one explain nighttime? Each night, the sun goes down, and in the morning, we're all still here!

TRIADS RECRUIT ON TWITTER

Members of the notorious Triads have taken to social media platforms, including Twitter, LinkedIn, and Club Penguin to recruit new members.

"Twitter is great for finding young people, but we've found so far that the most ready-to-fight recruits are found on Club Penguin," one anonymous member said. "If you want to join the triads, meet me on the iceberg."

HAVE YOU SEEN MY PHONE CHARGER?

Hey guys, has anyone seen my phone charger? I can't find it anywhere. I think I last saw it in the Silver building but it could also be somewhere in Kimmel. I asked my roommate if I left it at home but he hasn't responded yet. It's a white Apple charger, so just let me know if any of you guys see it. My phone's on like 17% so I need it back as soon as possible. Thanks!
