

What Is Plagiarism?

Any one or any combination of the following are types of plagiarism ~

- Copying information from a source and failing to provide appropriate documentation.
- Copying information from a source, providing documentation, but omitting quotation marks to identify passages.
- Including paraphrased materials from a source without documentation.
- Submitting a paper that has been written by someone else, for example -
 - A paper purchased or downloaded from a paper mill.
 - A paper copied from a source.
 - A paper previously submitted by another student.
- Using any words, computer code, graphics, and/or ideas without citing the source.