Dwelling Places, started by Rita and William Nkemba in August 2002, follows a holistic program to restore and rebuild the children and families in its care. The ‘Restore’ program is dedicated to children living on the streets and rehabilitating them through healthcare, education, spiritual welfare and reconciliation with their families. The ‘Rebuild’ program is dedicated to helping families welcome their children back into the home and to enable these parents and alumni to develop and enjoy a sustainable way of life after leaving Dwelling Places through income generating activities, education or vocational study. The families are regularly followed up and linked to community based social networks to enhance sustainable resettlement.

We currently operate two homes, one for girls and under 5’s and the second for boys. At these homes they are cared for by a house mother and they attend school on site. Both homes have a resident nurse who cares for the children’s basic needs and gives advice on health and hygiene matters. We have a farm which provides food for the children and training in livestock and farming for the boys. The children are shown the love of Christ and are encouraged to take part in daily devotions to grow their faith.

‘Dwelling Places works primarily to rescue rehabilitate and reconcile and Resettle children living on the streets with their families. As a Christian organisation, Dwelling Places focuses on the spiritual welfare of children helping them to grow in their relationship with God as part of their rehabilitation process. The children are then resettled by Dwelling Places back into a loving home and enrolled in boarding school to ensure their needs are catered for. Dwelling Places believe that education is vitally important to the rehabilitation of children from a life on the streets to a life where they feel empowered to change their own future.

Additionally, we speak out for children at risk – informing, motivating and equipping local families and communities to promote positive change in Ugandan society.

‘Your sons shall build what has long been in ruins, you shall rise up the foundation of many generations and you shall be called the repairers of broken walls, the restorers of streets with dwellings.’

‘Being a beneficiary of Dwelling Places has changed my life. I didn’t have an easy childhood, but now I’m an educated young woman, I rent my own home and I have a job in Administration all because Dwelling Places believed in me’ Beatrice, 23.
