INTRODUCTION

What is Juvenile Re-entry?

Juvenile re-entry describes young people (age 12-24) transitioning back to their families and communities after adjudications and/or court-ordered placements, including an Ohio Department of Youth Services (DYS) facility, a local detention facility, a residential treatment center, or a foster care placement. Re-entering youth are simultaneously experiencing two types of transition: one from confinement back to the community, and the other from adolescence to adulthood. Although the legal age of majority is 18, a child does not automatically become an “adult” in their thinking or behavior.

Emerging Practices in Juvenile Re-entry

The Council of State Government’s National Re-entry Resource Center has developed Five Emerging Practices in Juvenile Re-entry\(^1\) that serve as a framework for best practices for providing re-entry services:

1. Integrate the science of adolescent brain development into the design of re-entry initiatives.
2. Ensure that re-entry initiatives build on youths’ strengths and assets to promote pro-social development.
3. Engage families and communities meaningfully throughout the re-entry process.
4. Prioritize education and employment as essential elements of a re-entry plan.
5. Provide a stable, well-supported transition to adulthood that helps to create lifelong connections.

CLC’s re-entry practice model includes the following tenants as well:

6. Initiate the re-entry process as early as possible and engage with youth until their successful reintegration
7. Encourage communities to receive returning youth with both open arms and open minds.
8. Ensure safe and stable housing.

Positive Youth Development (PYD) Program

The PYD program is a highly effective method in reducing risk behaviors in youth. PYD is a strengths-based approach that works to identify and increase young people’s assets and the positive influences in their lives. This program promotes youth engagement within their communities, promotes positive relationships, and establishes good health practices. Because it

\(^1\) https://csgjusticecenter.org/youth/posts/five-emerging-practices-in-juvenile-reentry/draws on the strengths, skills, and interests of each young person, this program help the youth become more involved and engaged. PYD has been applied and studied by the University of Washington, as well as afterschool programs like 4-H and YouthBuild. The results show that youth involvement provides for a more effective transition from not only the juvenile justice system to the community, but also from adolescence to adulthood. The 5 C’s of Positive Youth Development are key to building on each youth’s strengths and promoting pro social development.

THE FIVE C’s

1. Competence refers to a positive view of one’s skill in social, academic, cognitive, health, and vocational areas. Social competence refers to interpersonal skills (e.g., conflict resolution). Cognitive competence refers to cognitive abilities (e.g., decision making). Academic competence refers to school performance as shown, in part, by school grades, attendance, and test scores. Health competence involves using nutrition, movement, and rest to keep oneself healthy. Vocational competence involves work habits and explorations of career choices. Effective entrepreneurial skills may be one instance of vocational competence.

2. Confidence is an internal sense of overall positive self-worth and self-efficacy.

3. Connection refers to positive bonds with people and institutions that are reflected in exchanges between the individual and his or her peers, family, school, and community and in which both parties contribute to the relationship; a feeling of safety, structure, and belonging.

4. Character is respect for societal and cultural norms, possession of standards for correct behaviors, a sense of right and wrong (morality), and integrity. Character is taking responsibility, a sense of independence, and individuality.

5. Compassion is a sense of sympathy and empathy for others, a commitment to social justice; an ability to see things from another’s perspective and to care about another’s struggles.

Understanding and utilizing the 5 C’s is essential to discovering and building on youth’s strengths. When the 5 C’s are implemented and used properly they result in the 6th C, contribution. Contributions refer to active participation and leadership in a variety of settings, making a difference to self, family, community, and to the institutions of a civil society.

Developing a Re-entry Plan

An effective re-entry plan acknowledges and integrates research on adolescent brain development, which shows that the adolescent brain is not fully developed until their mid-twenties. Adolescence is a transitional period; a child is becoming, but is not yet, an adult. An adolescent is at a crossroads of changes where emotions, hormones, judgment, identity, and the physical body are so in flux that parents, and even experts, struggle to understand the child’s experience. With this knowledge, re-entry planning should be tailored specifically for youth.

YOUTH RE-ENTRY PLANS SHOULD:

1. Engage the youth’s family and/or community as key partners in supporting the youth’s behavioral change and cognitive thought processes.
2. Work with the youth to strengthen their relationships with pro-social peers, thereby reducing the negative peer influences to which many adolescents are susceptible.
3. Support the youth’s connections to school and/or work, increasing the probability that they will be influenced by the pro-social developmental opportunities provided in the school or work setting.
4. Be prepared to develop a housing plan for homeless youth or youth with unstable housing.
   - Transitional Housing
   - Foster Care Placements
   - Community based programs that can help provide support and safe housing for the youth
5. Be aimed at addressing collateral consequences

This guide provides youth, their families and/or communities, and other service partners with information about the barriers that re-entering youth may face and resources to help ensure a smooth transition back into their communities and into adulthood. While this guide does not include every resource available to youth in the Cincinnati area, it provides a strong starting point for developing a well-rounded and effective re-entry plan.

EDUCATION

Education of Detained Youth

Ohio law requires compulsory education for children age six to eighteen. However, individuals are entitled to an education until age twenty-two. Quality education helps pave the way for a youth’s successful transition into adulthood. When a child is placed in a juvenile detention center, their education may be disrupted. In Ohio, the detention facility is responsible for coordinating the administration of education to committed youth and each child’s school district is responsible for ensuring access to free appropriate education. According to the Ohio Department of Education (ODE), detention facilities have many options on how to comply with this requirement. Those options include using a chartered, non-public school operated by their facility, making an arrangement for the child to be educated by their home school, making arrangements with the school district in which the facility is located, contracting with an educational service center, or relying on an internet or computer based educational program. Similarly, upon re-entry, a child may enroll in a variety of types of schools. It is important for a child’s re-entry team to know how each child’s facility operates. The entity responsible for the child’s education, whether it is internal or external, is responsible for the educational records.

ENROLLMENT OF RE-ENTERING YOUTH

For a youth placed in a DYS juvenile facility: He or she is not to be withdrawn from his or her resident district. However, upon release, the child may not be readmitted to any school until the superintendent of school district receives the students’ transcripts, behavioral reports, and any IEP from the Department of Youth Services. This may take up to two weeks.

For a youth placed in a non-DYS juvenile facility: He or she may be withdrawn from his or her resident district and reenrollment could be required. Although a child’s home district school must apply for withdrawal, and a document from another party is usually required to go through with the process, the ODE occasionally grants the school’s request for withdrawal of the child.

9 ORC §3313.64 (D)
10 Ohio Department of Education, Education of Students in Correctional Facilities.
11 ORC § 3313.672(A)(2)
School Enrollment Requirements

To start the enrollment process, the child’s guardian or the youth (if the youth is 18 or older) must present the person in charge of admission with any records given to the pupil by the school they most recently attended and a certification of their birth. A school district has 24 hours to request an official copy of a child’s school records from the child’s previous school. The birth certificate does not have to be a traditional birth certificate. The document can be any of the following:

- “A passport or attested transcript of a passport filed with a registrar of passports at a point of entry of the United States showing the date and place of birth of the child;”
- “An attested transcript of the certificate of birth;”
- “An attested transcript of the certificate of baptism or other religious record showing the date and place of birth of the child;”
- “An attested transcript of a hospital record showing the date and place of birth of the child,” or “a birth affidavit.”

A school cannot deny admission to a child due to homelessness, the time of year, or while they wait for the appropriate parties to produce school records or proof of residence. As explained in further detail below, this requirement does not apply if a child has been recently released from DYS. In addition to a certificate of birth and previous school records, if applicable, the guardian must provide certified proof of a court’s order for parental custody, power of attorney, and/or a caretaker authority. ODE delegates enrollment authority to each school district, so it is important to contact the child’s home school district to see if they require additional information such as an application, immunization history, or proof of residency.

If enrolling a child in a Cincinnati Public School, the child’s legal guardian should bring the following documents to the new school for registration:

Education Options for Youth not in a Juvenile Facility

PUBLIC SCHOOL

Ohio public schools are funded by public tax dollars. All children of school age in Ohio are entitled to attend the public schools in their district of without charge.\(^{17}\)

OPEN ENROLLMENT

Open enrollment is when a child attends a public school in a district other than the one in which their parent or guardian resides. Ohio allows each school district to choose whether they accept students through open enrollment. If accepted, the child will be able to attend their chosen school tuition free.

*Because the school district is free to allow, or not allow, children to open enroll, parents or guardians must check here to see if open enrollment is permitted.

ED CHOICE SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

In Ohio, the EdChoice Scholarship Program gives students from underperforming schools, or low-income students in kindergarten through the fourth grade, an opportunity to attend a private school on a state scholarship. To apply, follow the steps below:\(^{18}\)

1. Determine student’s eligibility. View this video for assistance determining eligibility.
2. Find a participating private school and apply. Find a list of 2018-19 schools here.
3. Once private school accepts application, it will submit a voucher application to ODE.
4. If necessary, the parent completes an Income Verification Form and returns it to ODE.
5. ODE will send an award or denial letter.

CAREER AND TECHNICAL SCHOOLS

Career and technical schools offer students a positive alternative to traditional high school classes. Cincinnati Public Schools offers nine “Career Tech clusters” which are housed at different high schools throughout the district. Listed below are the cluster of options, the different “pathways” CPS provides, and the location of each of these pathways.

If the request is denied, the parent has the right to a due process hearing before the school’s superintendent.\(^\text{21}\) For more information about homeschooling, see the ODE website.

HIGH SCHOOL EQUIVALENCE DIPLOMA 22
In Ohio, individuals 16 and older who have officially withdrawn from school and have not earned a high school diploma are eligible to take one of three tests (GED, TASC, HiSET) to earn their high school equivalency diploma. Anyone interested in taking a high school equivalency test must submit a signed withdrawal form to the Department’s Ohio High School Equivalence Office. If one is unable to produce a signed withdrawal form because the last school they attended has closed, they can send a letter to the Department’s Ohio High School Equivalence Office stating their interest in taking a high school equivalency test and providing the name of the last school they attended and their last date of attendance so the department can verify their withdrawal. For individuals who are 16 or 17 years old, a parent/legal guardian must sign a consent form to take the test. To take the test, individuals must register online and submit required documentation. For more information about each test, see the table below:

Requesting Educational Records

Requesting educational records can be a daunting process. However, this section explains who is allowed to request educational records, how long a school has to complete this request, and how to request records from Cincinnati Public Schools.

FERPA

A student’s parent, guardian, or adult students, must be allowed to review the student’s records, as well as request changes to incorrect or misleading information within the record. An institution may not charge a fee to search for or to retrieve the education records of a student. However, the institution may charge a fee for a copy of an educational record,\footnote{25} unless imposition of that fee effectively prevents a parent, guardian, or eligible student from exercising their right to inspect and review the student’s education records.\footnote{26} If a student owes outstanding fees, the school may withhold grades and credits until the fees are paid, unless a complaint has been filed at any time in a juvenile court alleging that the student is an abused, neglected, or dependent child.\footnote{27}

If a records request is made, the institution shall comply with a request for access to records within a reasonable period of time, but not more than 45 days after it has received the request. A “reasonable period of time” is shorter for a student with an Individualized Education Program (IEP).\footnote{28}

\section*{CPS RECORDS REQUEST\footnote{29}}

To obtain school records from the most recent school the youth attended, and the last school attended is a Cincinnati Public School:

If the last school and program the student was involved with is still operating, then the child’s parent/representative must contact the school and ask to speak with the registrar.

\footnotesize{29} http://www.cps-k12.org/schools/student-records}
If the program or school the student last attended has closed, student records will be in Inactive Records Department. These records are stored off site, and require a call to the records clerk. Cincinnati Public School states this process could take two to four weeks.

A list of Cincinnati Public Schools and their contact information has been compiled in the Resource Directory.

NON-CPS RECORDS REQUEST

If the most recent school attended is not a Cincinnati Public School, call the Board of Education of the most recent school attended and ask for the name and address of the records custodian of the school you need records from.

TRANSFERRING SCHOOL RECORDS

When a child transfers from one community school to another, a parent or guardian may share all of the student’s records with the new school. However, it is ultimately the job of the new school to request the official records from the school most recently attended.\(^{30}\) Although it is best to provide a new school with all available records, a student may enroll in a new school before the school has obtained the student’s official school records.\(^ {31}\)

However, if a youth is seeking admission to school after being released from DYS, the superintendent of the school district must obtain records from DYS before the youth can be admitted to the school.\(^ {32}\)

When a youth is placed in a detention facility, the facility becomes responsible for coordinating that youth’s education. The facility is responsible for arranging the transfer of records from the school that the youth most recently attended.\(^ {33}\)

HOUSING & MATERIAL ASSISTANCE

Everyone acknowledges that housing is a basic human need and that safe and stable housing is pivotal in a person’s overall health and stability. When a youth returns to an environment where there is no “home” or a home environment that is unsafe or unstable all other areas of their re-entry process seem to fall apart and recidivism increases.

Further, it’s no secret that our country is facing a housing crisis with few safe and affordable options available to persons with little to no access to money. Often, youth re-entering from out-of-home placements struggle with finding a place to live when they do not have a job with steady income and also struggle to get a job that would provide a steady income without first having a “home” address. It’s a loop inside which these youth get stuck and sometimes cannot get out.

Public Housing

HOUSING ELIGIBILITY

Public housing is available through the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for low-income families, the elderly, and people with disabilities. There are three levels of income qualifications: low income (80% of the county’s median income), very low income (50% of the county’s median income), and extremely low income (30% of the county’s median income). In 2018, the median income in Hamilton County was $78,300. Thus, a family of four qualifies as low income at $46,980 and very low income at $39,150.

However, income and family size are not the only factors that determine eligibility for public housing. In addition, the Public Housing Authority (PHA) evaluates if the future occupant is elderly or has a disability status. They also make sure that the applicant is a U.S. citizen, or an immigrant eligible for public services. After these three stages are passed, PHA will check references from the applicant’s former landlord(s), as well as past criminal records (see below for more information on how a criminal record may affect public housing benefits). Although the federal government has formal control of HUD, it delegates management of properties, general admission and occupancy decisions, as well as daily operation to local agencies. Find your local agency at this website.

36 Find federal public housing eligibility requirements and information about the application process on HUD’s official website.
CRIMINAL HISTORY & HOUSING ELIGIBILITY

According to HUD, a local housing authority cannot admit an individual with one of the following offenses:

1. sex offense that subjects the offender to a lifetime registration requirement under a State sex offender registration program,
2. production of methamphetamine near public housing ground, or
3. previous eviction due to drug abuse.\(^{37}\)

Individuals with one of the first two offenses have a lifetime ban. However, individuals that have been previously evicted due to drug abuse only have a three-year ban. The housing authority may reduce the three-year ban if the applicant can show that the person who abused drugs either does not live with the family anymore or went through a formal rehabilitation. Other than these express limitations, HUD grants great discretion to local housing authorities when admitting or denying individuals with criminal convictions.\(^{38}\) Each local housing authority in Ohio publishes a document called the “Admission and Continued Occupancy Policy” that sets forth that housing authority’s specific requirements and limitations. This policy usually states who is automatically ineligible for housing in the region, the grounds for eviction, and what a person can do to regain eligibility. For example, Columbus Metropolitan Housing Authority does not admit any occupant with a domestic violence charge within five years of the conviction. However, this stipulation can be removed or lowered if the individual can show that they have had 18 months of formal rehabilitation.\(^{39}\) The policy should also express if the housing authority takes into consideration only conviction, or also arrests. Record sealing or expungement can be a valuable tool for reducing barriers to housing.

RIGHT TO APPEAL

According to Federal Law, a public housing authority must promptly notify an ineligible applicant of their application denial. The statement must “contain a brief statement of reasons for the decision, state that if the family does not agree with the decision, the family may request an informal hearing on the decision, and state the deadline for the family to request an informal hearing.” The applicant must act promptly or they may lose their right to an appeal.

\(^{37}\) 24 CFR § 960.204
\(^{38}\) Id.
\(^{39}\) Columbus Metropolitan Housing Authority. “Admissions and Continued Occupancy Policy.” (1 August 2009).
The hearing must follow a formal procedure.\textsuperscript{40}

1. The housing authority must have an administrative plan. "The administrative plan must state the PHA procedures for conducting informal hearings for participants."

2. Both parties, the applicant and the PHA, have a right to discovery. The PHA must give the applicant an opportunity to examine any document that the PHA intends to use during the hearing. If the PHA does not follow this rule, they cannot rely on the document at the hearing. However, if the family wishes to have a copy of the document, it will come at the expense of the family. The same procedure applies to the PHA for any applicant documents they wish to view or copy.

3. The applicant has a right to representation. However, according to the law, this representation comes at the expense of the family. However, for those who qualify financially, a local legal aid society may represent individuals going through this process. For more information, contact Legal Aid Society of Greater Cincinnati by phone at (513) 241-9400.

4. The hearing may be conducted by any person or persons designated by the PHA. This person must be one other than a person who made or approved the decision under review or a subordinate of this person. The person must conduct the hearing in accordance to the PHA hearing procedures.

5. The hearing officer must give both the PHA and the applicant an opportunity to present evidence, and question witnesses. Evidence may be considered regardless of its admissibility under normal judicial proceedings.

6. At the end of the hearing, the hearing officer must issue a written decision, and promptly furnish a copy to the applicant. The hearing officer must make their decision based on "a preponderance of the evidence." Although this standard does not have a clear definition, in this situation that requirement would mean that the original decision maker "more than likely" made the right judgment to deny, or "more than likely" made the wrong judgment. Preponderance of the evidence is a much less strict guideline than the criminal standard of "beyond a reasonable doubt."

A PHA may not be bound by a decision if the hearing officer exceeded their authority; the decision was contrary to PHA policy; or the decision was contrary to HUD regulations or requirements, or otherwise contrary to federal, State, or local law.\textsuperscript{41} If the PHA finds that it is not bound by the decision, they must notify the applicant and give an explanation.\textsuperscript{42}

EMPLOYMENT

A staggering number of individuals in our city are without jobs. Many of those people are suffering from employment barriers related to former incarceration. Organizations across Cincinnati have developed programs to help tackle these barriers. Some provide industry-specific work experience and training, while others focus more on teaching their participants how to properly engage in an interview and at the workplace. Rather than applying to job after job and being turned down, your efforts may be best spent putting energy into a program designed to help you become job-ready.

Beacon of Hope Business Alliance

Beacon of Hope strives to inspire employers in Hamilton County to increase the number of jobs open to “hard-to-hire” individuals, such as people with criminal records. Beacon of Hope helps raise awareness about the need for, and benefit of, “second chance” employment.

LEGAL MATTERS

Court Fees

The juvenile court has many different ways of enforcing punishment, such as:

- Levying a fine against the child
- Placing the juvenile on community control
- Requiring the youth to complete community service
- Requiring the juvenile to obtain a high school diploma or its equivalent (GED)
- Placing the youth on a monitoring system for drugs or alcohol
- Placing the youth on house arrest or implementing specified curfew times
- Confining the youth in a detention center.

Some of the fines that a juvenile in Ohio could face range from $20 to $2,000. Most traffic charges cost $50. The scaling system for misdemeanors and felonies can be found below.

If a court levies a fine against a juvenile then the juvenile is responsible for the payment of that fine. It may be paid by cash, check, money order, or credit card. This payment is paid to the clerk of court in the county where the youth was charged and fined.

If the offense is one that requires restitution then a restitution hearing can occur. During this hearing, the court will base the fine off the recommendation by the victim, presentence investigation report, receipts indicating the cost of repairing or replacing property and any other information that is provided to the court. If the court orders restitution, then the youth may be required to pay it in a lump sum or installments, to perform repair work to restore any damaged property to its original condition, to complete community service, or to perform any other of form of restitution that the court deems appropriate.\textsuperscript{46}

Collateral Consequences

When youth return to their communities after court-ordered placements, they often encounter several “collateral consequences” that may restrict their access to employment, housing, and education. However, successful experiences in these areas after re-entry help reduce recidivism rates.\textsuperscript{47}

EMPLOYMENT

Adjudications play several roles in one’s ability to secure or maintain employment. Some offenses may prevent one from being able to obtain certain employment positions. Other consequences may affect one’s ability to maintain employment if the adjudication occurs after hiring. Below are a few examples of potential employment related consequences.

Depending on the offense, a person seeking employment after an adjudication:

- May not be able to obtain employment in elderly, child, and hospice care positions.
- May not be able to obtain employment in civil service, law enforcement, fire and rescue, and first responder positions
- May not be able to obtain employment in credit unions, credit services organizations, banking, real estate, and construction
- May temporarily be unable to serve in professional fund-raising or fund-raising consultant positions
- May not be eligible for a position as a telephone solicitor
- May not be able eligible for several medical positions
- May be denied the opportunity to earn a license as pharmacist, psychologist, social worker, professional counselor, marriage and family therapist, chemical dependency counselor, and/or a CPA certification\textsuperscript{48}

HOUSING

Adjudications can limit one’s ability to secure stable housing. Some offenses, such as sexual offenses, may result in an automatic and mandatory bar from public housing.\textsuperscript{49} records in Ohio are not public information, most offenses will not appear on background checks. However, offenses that would have been felonies if committed by an adult may be accessible, which could make it more difficult for you and/or your family to secure housing.\(^{50}\) See below for few examples of potential housing related consequences:

- May be unable to live with a person seeking to adopt or foster a child.
- May be denied access to public housing for some offenses.
- May be denied housing by landlord for some offenses.

EDUCATION

If a child is charged with a delinquent act, the juvenile court is required to inform the child’s school district of the charge, even if the offense did not occur on the school’s campus.\(^{51}\) Officers are also required to inform the school of the nature of the offense and the specifics surrounding the offense at that time.\(^{52}\) If the child is adjudicated, the court is required to notify the child’s school of the adjudication,\(^{53}\) and then the school has the power to suspend or expel the child.\(^{54}\) The Ohio Department of Youth Services (DYS) is also required to notify the school if the child is committed to the custody of DYS.\(^{55}\)

CIVICS

“Civics” refers to one’s rights and duties as a citizen. The most common form of collateral consequences against one’s civic duties is the impairing of an individual’s ability to serve on a jury.

Collateral consequences can seriously hinder a youth’s ability to successfully re-enter the community and society in general. They may be in the form of discretionary disqualifications or mandatory sanctions.\(^{56}\) State laws impose most collateral consequences, however, some may come from federal or local ordinances as well.\(^{57}\) For example, some collateral consequences youth and their families may face can include:

- Lifelong registration on a public offender list;

• Denial of medical services;
• Publically available court records;
• Risk to immigration status;
• Loss of right to vote or serve on a jury;
• Loss of driving privileges; and
• Possible future prosecution.\(^{58}\)

Note: The above information is in no way meant to be an exhaustive list. There are thousands of collateral consequences; this list merely includes the most common. If you would like to know more specifics about your case, make sure to contact your public defender.

COLLATERAL CONSEQUENCES BASED ON OFFENSE

Ohio’s Civil Impacts of Criminal Convictions (CIVICC) website,\(^ {59}\) compiled by the Ohio Justice and Policy Center and maintained by the Ohio Public Defender, provides a database of the possible collateral consequences of adult convictions, however, there is concern that juveniles may face some of these adult consequences as well.

As mentioned earlier, the following is a list of the most common juvenile offenses in Hamilton County, with its corresponding number of collateral consequences (or impacts).

- Theft: 547 Impacts;
- Robbery: 583 Impacts;
- Receiving Stolen Property: 532 Felony Impacts, 220 Misdemeanor Impacts;
- Obstruction of Official Business: 447 Felony Impacts, 90 Misdemeanor Impacts;
- Resisting: 446 Felony Impacts, 90 Misdemeanor Impacts;
- Carrying of a Concealed Weapon: 536 Felony Impacts, 192 Misdemeanor Impacts;
- Possession of Marijuana: 551 Felony Impacts, 237 Misdemeanor Impacts;
- Offenses Against Family (Domestic Violence): 550 Felony Impacts, 217 Misdemeanor Impacts.

HAMILTON COUNTY JUVENILE COURT

The Hamilton County Juvenile Court sees a wide variety of crimes committed by juveniles, however, the most common among the youth include: theft and robbery, receiving stolen property, obstruction of official business, resisting, carrying of a concealed weapon, possession of marijuana, and offenses against family.

Although all crimes result in some form of collateral consequence for employment, education, or housing, some collateral consequences are technically classified as “mandatory,” rather than merely “discretionary.” This means that while the decision-maker can ultimately decide not to impose a consequence against the youth in some situations for discretionary consequences, in many other situations, other factors—such as the severity of the crime or age of the child—cannot play a role in the decision process. In other words, the mandatory consequence is applied automatically with no regard to individual circumstances.

Some consequences may allow for future restoration of the rights lost. Some rights may be restored automatically after a specified amount of time passes, while other rights require a waiting period and a specific process to occur before restoration. Unfortunately, most rights do not have the possibility of restoration.

Sealing and Expungement

JUVENILE CRIMINAL RECORDS

Juveniles are adjudicated “delinquents” and therefore do not receive criminal convictions. This means that juvenile records are not considered to be criminal records. Thus, if someone with an adjudication is asked on a job application if they have been “convicted of a crime,” the legally correct answer is simply “no.” Still, certain offenses will still show up on background checks. Schools and certain employers and government agencies, like courts, police, and prosecutors may have access to juvenile records.

A sealed juvenile record is removed from the individual’s main criminal history file, and may only be accessed by courts, police, and prosecutors. Sealed records will not appear on background checks for housing or employment. Conversely, expunged records are completely destroyed both in their physical and electronic forms, so they become permanently irretrievable.

When an individual applies to have his/her juvenile records sealed and/or expunged, the court will consider the following in deciding whether to grant the application: all prior adjudications, the individual’s age at the time of the offense, the nature of the offense, the individual’s efforts at rehabilitation including employment and education, and any other factors the court deems relevant. The following juvenile adjudications can never be sealed: aggravated murder, murder, and rape.

ADULT CRIMINAL RECORDS

As with juvenile records, sealing an adult criminal record can help mitigate barriers to employment, education, and housing. When an adult criminal record is sealed, “most employers, all landlords, and anyone else will not be able to access sealed records.” However, a sealed adult criminal record is still accessible by:

- Prosecutors, judges, and police if there are future criminal investigations;
- Judges considering convictions for sentencing in future crimes;
- Employers in law enforcement, jobs working with children or the elderly (e.g. schools, daycares, and health-care services), and some jobs in real-estate and financial institutions;
- Most state professional-licensing boards, such the State Accountancy Board, State Medical Board, State Dental Board, State Board of Nursing, State Board of Psychology, and others, for the purposes of license denial, suspension, or revocation.

To begin the process of having an adult criminal record sealed, one must first determine whether they are eligible. An adult may be eligible if they have no more than five felonies on their record, do not have any pending criminal charges, and have satisfied the waiting time. If one determines that they are eligible, they can begin the application process by filling out sealing (expungement) forms available at the Office of the County Clerk of Courts or, in some counties, on the Clerk of Courts website. Once the appropriate paperwork has been completed, an individual will need to file the application at the Clerk’s Office. After filing, the applicant will receive a court date. For assistance applying for sealing/expungement individuals can attend the Fresh Start Clinic or contact one of the legal resources listed on page 37.
