CELEBRATING 30 YEARS OF ADVOCACY
Children’s Law Center, Inc. (CLC), established in 1989, is a non-profit legal service center protecting the rights of children and youth to help them overcome barriers and transition into adulthood, better advocate for their needs, and successfully contribute to society. It provides individual legal advocacy to children and youth, and through public policy work, training and education, impact litigation, and juvenile defender support services, seeks to improve the systems that serve them. CLC offers services in both Kentucky and Ohio, and collaborates with other organizations within the region and nationally on a variety of topics.

YEAR IN REVIEW

Children’s Law Center, Inc. celebrated 30 years of fulfilling this mission in March 2019. As a way to commemorate this milestone, CLC went through a rebranding process. In addition to the new logo, released in October 2019, CLC now has an icon and brand colors to ensure uniformity in publications and CLC materials.

CLC began the development of a new strategic plan in late 2019. As part of the planning process, interviews were conducted with key community stakeholders. When asked, the majority of those interviewed supported CLC dedicating more resources to systems change work. The planning also included updating the mission and statement of values, completing background work on revenue development, and re-examining infrastructure and board development.

CRIME VICTIM PROJECT

The Crime Victim Project provides legal services to youth victims of family, dating and domestic violence, sexual assault, human trafficking, and a variety of other types of crimes. The primary goal of the Project is to provide legal services to youth who need assistance because of the crime committed against them. The Crime Victim Project is funded by the Victims of Crime Act.

TRAUMA INFORMED CUSTODY MEDIATION

In 2018, the Children’s Law Center launched a pilot project called the Child Centered Mediation Program. This program is specifically designed to serve those who are unlikely to have counsel or, if they do have counsel, would be unlikely to be able to afford mediation. Its purpose is to provide mediation services to families involved in high conflict custody disputes with a specific focus on the child or children. It aims to reduce family conflict resulting from a custody dispute and the long term negative effects of that conflict on the health of the child. This project was funded by the Spaulding Foundation and the Northern Kentucky Bar Foundation.
LEVERAGING NORTHERN KENTUCKY'S RESOURCES TO SUPPORT CHILD VICTIMS OF THE OPIOID EPIDEMIC

In 2020, Children's Law Center (CLC), in conjunction with the Kentucky Justice and Public Safety Cabinet, launched a pilot project, the Opioid Project to specifically serve Northern Kentucky children impacted by substance abuse. The Opioid Project uses a multidisciplinary response by dedicating an attorney and a social worker who work collaboratively to provide holistic and trauma-informed services for children. Services include, but are not limited to, legal representation and community service coordination.

HOLISTIC AND EDUCATION LAW PROGRAM (HELP)

HELP is designed to provide legal counsel for youth experiencing poverty and homelessness to fill an existing gap for services in the area. Specific outcomes include school or college enrollment, employment, job training or assistance programs, graduation, GED, improved educational supports, grade promotion, and improvement in school attendance.
The NKU Chase Children's Law Center Clinic serves as an educational model that allows law students to gain real-world experience representing young clients while being closely supervised by Chase Law professors Amy Halbrook and Susie Boosker. Once oriented to practice, students are assigned to actual cases.

Through participation in the Clinic, students develop skills necessary to the successful practice of law and are exposed to multiple perspectives on justice, fairness and morality. Each student, preparing to soon become a lawyer, is encouraged to reflect on attorneys' roles and ethical responsibilities.

The Clinic students, under the direct supervision of Professor Amy Halbrook & Susanne Bookser represented 31 clients.
The Children’s Law Center works with law students from Salmon P. Chase College of Law, the University of Kentucky Law School, and the University of Cincinnati Law School on fellowships and externships. Additionally, social work and criminal justice students from Northern Kentucky University, University of Cincinnati, University of Kentucky, and Xavier University, along with students from various universities across the nation, have volunteered or completed internships through the Center. Social work students enhance CLC work in a variety of ways, from direct client assistance to coordinate community organizing and education for large scale legislative and policy reform.

Lowell Schechter passed away in December 2019. He was a long-time champion of the Children’s Law Center. He served as a mentor to its founder, Kim Brooks Tandy, significantly contributing to the creation of CLC. In various capacities, he served on CLC’s Board of Directors for many years until shortly before his death. He was the driving force behind the NKU Chase Children’s Law Center Clinic, and the 3rd floor of CLC’s building, where the Clinic is housed, is named in his honor. He was a tireless advocate for juvenile justice and children’s rights issues. May we all be inspired by his dedication to public service.

In collaboration with his family, CLC established a Lowell Schechter Memorial Fund with the proceeds to be used to aid in making the CLC Covington office ADA compliant.
