SKAGWAY VILLAGE

CONSTITUTION & BYLAWS

This document sets forth the text of the original Constitution and Bylaws adopted on November 9, 1980, as amended by amendments adopted in 2004, 2015, and 2018.

Preamble

We are the Native Americans who are one people with a common bond of association as the Indigenous residents and descendants of Skagway Village, a federally recognized tribe, and traditionally called Shagagwei (“the Tribe”). The Tribe is organized under this Constitution in order to promote the common good and well-being of the Tribe and its members; to preserve our Tlingit culture and values; to protect our sovereign and inherent rights; to promote our social, economic, and political progress as Indigenous people; and to protect the individual and community rights of our members. This Amended Constitution shall supersede any previously adopted Constitution of Skagway Village.

It is not the intent of this Constitution to undermine or eliminate our unwritten and traditional law that we have followed as traditional Indigenous people. Tribal law has always been in place in Tlingit country and this Constitution is not adopted to displace its application.

Article 1: Name

This is the Constitution and Bylaws of the federally recognized tribe of Skagway Village. This Constitution and Bylaws are used by the Skagway Traditional Council (STC or Council), the Tribe’s governing body, as guidelines for governing the Council, tribal affairs, and tribal sovereignty.

Article 2: Traditional Territory and Jurisdiction

Section One: Territory. The Tribe's traditional territory includes all lands and waters and interest in lands and waters within the Tribe's traditional use area, including such Indian country as may now or hereafter exist within that territory. Such lands and waters include, but are not limited to, all lands and waters customarily and traditionally used or owned by the Skagway Native people since time immemorial, and all lands within the modern day community of Skagway, Alaska. The Tribe shall maintain an official map of its traditional territory.

Section Two: Jurisdiction. The Tribe shall have jurisdiction to the fullest extent possible over all lands, waters, and people within its traditional territory, and members, to the extent such jurisdiction does not violate Federal, state, or Tlingit law. This jurisdiction extends to all matters that affect the Tribe's governance, political integrity, economic security, or health and welfare; and also to persons who interact with the Tribe or its members. Nothing in this Constitution shall be construed to limit the ability of the Tribe to exercise its jurisdiction, which is based upon its inherent sovereignty as a Tribe.
Article 3: Membership

Section One: Base roll

Base roll is a list of first-generation members that is approved by the tribal council through resolutions to establish base roll membership eligibility. The Base Roll may be updated by the council periodically to regulate and maintain base roll memberships.

Section Two: Types of Membership

1. Base roll Membership - Base roll membership consists of any person of North American Native decent and whose name appears on the base roll adopted by the Skagway Traditional Council after the passage of this Constitution shall be base members of the Tribe, provided that the Tribe may correct or amend the base membership roll following the adoption of this Constitution.
   a. Decedents of Base roll Members: Any lineal descendants of the base roll member, biological or adopted, shall automatically be eligible for membership in the Tribe. No blood quantum threshold is required for lineal descendants.
   b. Children of Base roll Members: Children of base roll members shall automatically be eligible for membership in the Tribe. Parents or guardians may not relinquish Tribal eligibility or remove their minor children from membership with the Tribe. Minor children shall either be formally enrolled with the Tribe or be members of the Tribe by virtue of their eligibility until they reach the age of eighteen, regardless of whether their parents enroll them with another Tribe.

2. Jurisdictional Membership - Any person of at least 1/32th Alaska Native, American Indian, or Canadian First Nations descent who has lived with the Tribe's territory for 90 days and intends to reside within the Tribe's territory may be admitted to membership at the discretion of the Tribe and as otherwise permitted under this Constitution. However, their membership is relinquished if they move out of the territory or if the tribe collects two (2) years’ worth of returned mail and the member has not updated their address despite reasonable attempts by the tribe’s enrollment office. Jurisdictional Members are not entitled to receive dividends from revenues derived from Tribal Assets but are eligible for tribal programs at the discretion of the tribal council unless limited by state
   a. Descendants of Jurisdictional Members: Descendants of jurisdictional members are not automatically entitled to membership and must be approved for membership by the tribal council.
   b. Children of Jurisdictional Members: Their children are not automatically eligible for membership unless one of the parents is a lineal descendant of a base roll member.

3. Honorary Membership - The title "Honorary Tribal Member" may be granted by the Tribe to any person. Honorary members are restricted from voting, sharing Tribal assets, passing the title on to their descendants, and holding Tribal office. Honorary members are not eligible for Tribal Programs.

Section Two: Dual Membership - A member of the Tribe may be a member of another tribe but is not entitled to dual benefits. If the Tribal member is eligible for Tribal benefits with the other tribe, and resides in that tribe's territory, then they are not eligible for programs with STC. However, if the member is not eligible for benefits with the other tribe, then they may be eligible for Tribal programs at the discretion of STC unless prohibited by state or federal law.

Section Three: Voluntary Relinquishment - Membership may be voluntarily relinquished by written notice from the member to the Tribe. Except as permitted by ordinance, no person's membership may be relinquished unless that person is at least 18 years of age or is a jurisdictional member.

Section Four: Disenrollment - The Tribe may revoke membership with due process under Tribal Law. Jurisdictional Members may be disenrolled if they move out of the tribe’s territory or if the tribe has not had a good address on file for at least two (2) years. Further procedures for disenrollment shall be established by enacting approving ordinances by the tribal council.

Section Five: Regulation of Membership - The Traditional Council shall have the power to enact ordinances and resolutions - not inconsistent with this Constitution - prescribing rules and regulations governing membership. Unless otherwise stated through ordinance or resolution, the Council regulates membership application, appeals, and member status.

Action may also be taken at a regular or special meeting if it is unanimously approved by all members of the Council in writing.

Section Two: Quorum and Voting. A quorum of the Council shall consist of 3 members of the Council. Except for filling vacancies or as otherwise provided in this Constitution, no business shall be transacted unless a quorum is present and the matter is approved by affirmative vote of 3 Council members. A vote may be collected via e-mail as long as the e-mails are retained as proof of the vote. Except as otherwise provided by this Constitution, any action required or permitted to be taken by the Council at a meeting, including voting, may be taken if prior to such action a written consent is signed by all members of the Council and filed with the minutes of the Council’s meeting. The President is entitled to vote on all matters before the Council, unless prohibited by law or a conflict of interest.
