	Keller and Inchelium Districts receiving the heaviest of the damage. This weather event has knocked out power to the rural portions of the Keller and Inchelium Districts, with an estimated 40 miles of power poles and lines destroyed. The storm also caused damage to major road arteries in all the Districts, flooding, damage to Housing and Urban Development (HUD) areas, and the displacement of tribal membership from their places of residence. Emergency services have been deployed to assist membership, assess damage, and prioritize repair, with this crisis expected to last for several days. As such, in order to request federal assistance in dealing with this situation, and mobilize the necessary resources to protect the citizens and property of the Confederated Tribes of the Colville Indian Reservation, to include all properties owned, held in trust, or administered by the Colville Tribes; which are primarily located in the Washington State Counties of Okanogan, Ferry and Stevens. Colville Business Council Chairperson John Sirois, acting with the telephonic support of ten (10) other council members, issued a State of Emergency Declaration (attached) and authorizes the Chair or designee to sign all necessary documents.
