Dare to be different

How do you dare to be different?

This requirement is all about celebrating diversity amongst friends and encouraging others to be themselves. This exercise can be done in a single troop meeting and has no minimum number of girls required to complete the task.

What you do is list out your favorite qualities about you based on the letters in your name. This can be first name only or include last name too. Decorate your page so it is as unique as you are.

When done, stand up one at a time and share those qualities about you. Give the other girls a chance to compliment the speaker on her qualities and an opportunity to ask questions.

Optional: You can order premade name pictures personalized with girl’s names on them and they will ship with the patches. See link on the website.
