

Most Likely To Succeed

Most Likely to Succeed (MLTS) offers an inspiring look at what students and teachers are capable of — if we have the vision and courage to transform our schools. Directed by acclaimed documentarian Greg Whiteley, the film has been an official selection of two dozen of the world's top film festivals, including Sundance, Tribeca, AFI, Cleveland, Dallas, Milwaukee, Sarasota, Seattle, Virginia, and Bergen. It's been featured at leading conferences on education, including ASU/GSV, SxSWedu, Harvard/GoldmanSachs, and NewSchools Venture Fund. Audience members call it the most compelling film ever done on the topic of school.

The Campaign

Our goal is to help schools — all schools — move forward by re-imagining their purpose, and creating learning experiences that prepare kids for life in the 21st Century. We make MLTS available to schools for screenings that bring teachers, parents, and students together to see the film and engage in thoughtful discussion about the future of their school and kids. After seeing the film, your community — with help from our website's resources — will be inspired to act. During this school year, MLTS' Executive Producer Ted Dintersmith is coming to all fifty states, bringing together government officials, educators, business people, philanthropists, parents, and students. This unprecedented fifty-state campaign is orchestrated by The Future Project, a fast-growing non-profit transforming inner-city public schools across the country and with a big vision for America's future. With support from a dozen other great partners, we seek to create a nationwide movement to empower our schools to help every child in America

“ The 21st century is going to be all about building, creating, and innovating. This remarkable film shows a path of how we can empower all of our children to do that. ”
